

Collection of Historical Combat Treatises and Fencing Manuals

In Conjunction with the Massachusetts Center for Renaissance Studies

The following is a digital reproduction of an existing historical document. It has been scanned and converted into Portable Document Format (PDF) for the purpose of making it freely available to the public.

You are welcome to redistribute unaltered copies of this document via electronic means. You may not, however, alter the document without permission nor profit from its redistribution.

To download other works in the Collection, and for more information, please visit:

www.umass.edu/renaissance/lord

PARADOXES

OF DEFENCE,

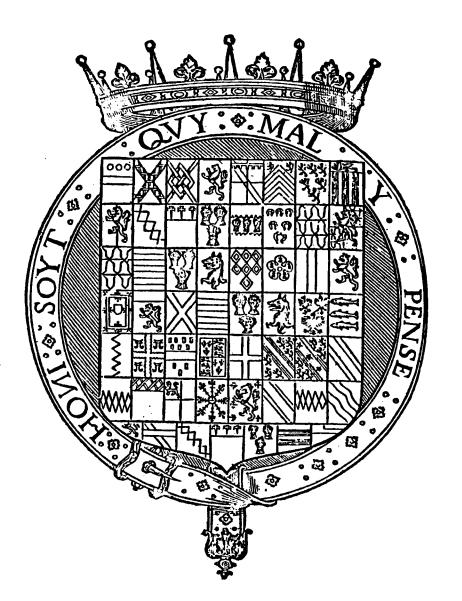

WHEREIN IS PROVED THE TRVE grounds of Fight to be in the short auncient weapons, and that the short Sword hath advantage of the long Sword or long Rapier. And the weakenesse and imperfection of the Rapier-fights displayed. Together with an Admonition to the noble, ancient, victorious, valiant, and most braue nation of Englishmen, to beware of false teachers of Desence, and how they forsake their owne naturall fights: with a briefe commendation of the noble science or exercising of

By George Siluer Gentleman.

LONDON,
Printed for Edvvard Blount.
1 5 9 9.

TO THE RIGHT

HONORABLE, MY SINGVLAR

GOOD LORD, ROBERT EARLE OF

Essex and Ewe, Earle Marshall of England, Viscount Hereford, Lord Ferrers of Chartley, Bourchier

and Louaine, Maister of the Queenes Maiesties horse, & of the Ordenance, Chancellor of the Vniuersitie of Cambridge, Knight of the most noble order of the Garter, and one of her Highnesse most bo norable Priny Counsell.

ENCING (Right honorable) in this new fangled age, is like our fashions, euerie daye a change, resembling the Camelion, who altereth himselfe into all colours saue white: so

Fencing changeth into all wards faue the right. That it is so, experience teacheth vs: why it is so, I doubt not but your wisedome doth conceiue. There is nothing permanent that is not true, what can be true that is vncertaine? how can that be certaine, that stands vpon vncertain grounds? The mind of man a greedie hunter after truth, finding the feeming truth but chaunging, not alwayes one, but alwayes diverse, forfakes the supposed, to find out the assured certaintie: and fearching euery where faue where it should, meetes with all faue what it would. VVho seekes & finds not, seekes in vaine; who feekes in vaine, must if he wil find seeke againe: and feeke he may againe and againe, yet all in vaine. VVho seekes not what he would, as he should, and where he should, as in all other things (Right honourable) fo in Fencing: the mind defirous of truth, huntsafter it, and hating falshood, flies from it, and therfore having misfed it once, it affayes the second time: if then he thriues not, he tries another way: whe that hath failed he adventures on the third: & if all these faile him, yet he neuer faileth to chaunge his weapon, his fight, his ward, if by any meanes he may compasse what he most affects: for because men defire to find out a true defence for themfelues in their fight, therefore they seeke it diligently, nature having taught vs to defend our felues, and Art teaching how: and because we mille it in one way we chaunge to another. But though

THE EPISTLE

DEDICATORIE.

though we often chop and change, turne and returne, from ward to ward, from fight to fight, in this vnconstant search, yet wee neuer rest in anie, and that because we neuer find the truth: and therefore we never find it, because we never English maisters of defence, are feeke it in that weap a where it may be found. profitable members in the com-For, to seeke for a true defence in an vntrue men wealth, if weapon, is to angle on the earth for fish, and to they teach with ancient English huntin the fea for Hares: truth is ancient though means of true Defence , weight it seeme an vostart: our forefathers were wise, and consenient length, within thoughour age account them foolish, valiant the compesse of though we repute them cowardes: they found the flatures and frength of men out the true defence for their bodies in short warmand, because it maketb weapons by their wisdome, they defended them them fafe, hald, valiant, bardie. selues and subdued their enemies, with those frong and weapons with their valour. And (Right hono-bealthfull, and villorious in rable) if we will have this true Defence, we must the warren, forzice of their seeke it where it is, in short Swords, short Staves Prince, defence the halfe Pike, Partifans, Gleues, or fuch like of their friendes, or fuch like and country. weapons of perfect legths, not in long Swords, But the Repier in reason most to be long Rapiers, nor frog pricking Poiniards: for taught, nor fuffred to be taught, if there be no certain grounds for Defence, why because it maketh men fearedo they teach it? if there be, why have they not full and on fall and on fall found it? Not because it is not: to say so, were in fingle combat, andweak & vnto gaine fay the truth: but because it is not cer-serviceable in the taine in those weapons which they teach. To proue this, I have fet forth these my Paradoxes, different I confesse from the maine current of our outlandish teachers, but agreeing I am well assured to the truth, and tending as I hope to the honor of our English nation. The reason which moued me to aduenture fo great a taske, is the defire I have to bring the truth to light, which hath long time lyen hidden in the caue of contempt, while we like degenerate sonnes, haue forfaken our forefathers vertues with their weapons, and have lusted like men sicke of astrange ague, after the strange vices and deuises of Italian, French and Spanish Fencers, litle remembring, that these Apish toyes could not free Rome from Brennius facke, nor Fraunce from King Henrie the fifthis conquest. To this defire to find out truth the daughter of time, begotten of Bellona, I was also moued, that by it I might remoue the great losse of our English gallants, which we daily fuffer by these imperfect fights, wherein none vndertake the combat, be his cause neuer so good, his cuning neuer so much, his strength and agilitie neuer so great, but his vertue was tied to fortune: happie man, happie doale,

A 4.

THE EPISTLE

DEDICATORIE.

doale, kill or be killed is the dreadfull iffue of this divellish impersect fight. If that man were now aliue, which beat the Maister for the scholers fault, because he had no better instructed him, these Italian Fencers could not escape his censure, who teach vs Offence, not Defence, and to fight, as Diogenes scholers were taught to daunce, to bring their liues to an end by Art. VVas Aiax a coward because he fought with a feuen foulded Buckler, or are we mad to go naked into the field to trie our fortunes, not our vertues? VVas Achilles a run-away, who ware that well tempered armour, or are we desperat, who care for nothing but to fight, and learn like the Pigmeys, to fight with bodkins, or weapons of like defence? Is it valour for a man to go naked against his enemie? why then did the Lacedemonians punish him as desperate, whom they rewarded for his vallour with a Lawrell crowne? But that which is most shamefull, they To this it will be teach me to butcher one another here at home the warrer wa in peace, wherewith they cannot hurt their ene- of few Repiers mies abrode in warre. For, your Honour well fort Swords. To knowes, that when the battels are joyned, and Those are insufficiently come to the charge, there is no roome for them cient also, for that I answere:

THE EPISTLE

hilts, whereby they are infufficient in their defence, and espewhich being ftroken although monly is the loffe of a ma, because the force of bis hand being taken from him, he is neither able to defend his life, nor greatly to offend his enemy:

to drawe their Bird-spits, and when they have them, what can they doe with them? can they cially for the had, pierce his Corslet with the point? can they vnlace his Helmet, vnbuckle his Armour, hew awith a verie smal sunder their Pikes with a Stocata, a reversa, a Dritta, a Stramason, or other such like tepestuous termes? no, these toyes are fit for children, not for men, for stragling boyes of the Campe, to murder poultrie, not for men of Honour to trie the battellwith their foes. Thus I have (right Honoraand againe, fince ble) for the trial of the truth, betweene the short hath bene taught, Sword and the long Rapier, for the fauing of the liues of our English gallants, who are sent to loft the vie of the certaine death by their vncertaine fights, & for abandoning of that mischieuous and impersect weapon, which ferues to kill our frieds in peace, but cannot much hurt our foes in warre, haue I at this time given forth these Paradoxes to the view of the world. And because I knowe such straunge opinions had need of stout defence, I humbly craue your Honorable protection, as one in whom the true nobility of our victorious Auncestors hath taken vp his residence. It will fute to the rest of your Honours most noble coplements, to maintaine the defence of their weapons

DEDICATORY.

weapons whose vertues you possesse. It agrees with your Honourable disposition, to receive with fauour what is presented with loue. It forts with your Lordships high authority, to weigh with reason, what is fit for marshall men. It is an vsuall point of your Honor, which winnes your Lordship loue in your countrey, to defend the truth in whomfoeuer: and it addeth a fupply to that which your Lordship haue of late begun to your vnspeakeable honor and our inestimable benefite, to reduce the vvearing of fwordes with hilts ouer the hands, to the Romane disci- Why finite we pline, no longer then they might draw them vn- naked, fince therder their armes, or ouer their shoulders. In all lines are defenor any of these respects, I rest assured that your ded, our enemies Lordship will vouchsafe to receive with favor wounded, and and maintaine with honour these Paradoxes of no resson but mine, which if they be shrouded under so fafe a fould be at well shield, I will not doubt but to maintaine with armed and prosireason amongst the vvise, and proue it by pra-other part of the clife upon the ignorant, that there is no certaine defence in the Rapier, and that there is great advantage in the short Sword against the long Rapier, or all maner of Rapiers in generall, of what length foeuer. And that the short Staffe

leave the band discomforted. that the band

THE EPIST. DEDICATORIE.

hath the vauntage against the long Staffe of twelue, sourceene, sixteene or eighteene soote long, or of what length soeuer. And against two men vvith their Swordes and Daggers, or two Rapiers, Poiniards & Gantlets, or each of them a case of Rapiers: vvhich vvhether I can performe or not, I submit for triall to your Honors martiall censure, being at all times readie to make it good, in vvhat maner, and against vvhat man soeuer it shall stand vvith your Lordships good liking to appoint. And so I humbly commend this booke to your Lordships vvisedome to peruse, and your Honour to the Highest to protect in all health and happinesse novve and euer.

Your Honors in all dutie.

George Siluer.

AN

AN ADMONITION

TO THE NOBLE, ANCIENT,

VICTORIOVS, VALIANT, AND MOST BRAVE NATION OF ENGLISHMEN.

knowledge of all maner of weapos, and being experieced in all maner of fights, thereby perceiuing the great abuses by the Italian Teachers of Offence done vnto them, the great errors, inconveniences, & false resolutions they have brought them into, haue inforced me, euen of pitie of their most lamentable wounds and slaughters, & as I verily thinke it my bounden dutie, with all loue and humilitie to admonish them to take heed, how they submit themselues into the hands of Italian teachers of Defence, or straungers whatsoeuer; and to beware how they forsake or suspect their owne naturall fight, that they may by casting off of these Italianated, weake, fantasticall, and most diuellish and imperfect fights, and by exercising of their owne ancient weapons, be restored, or atchieue vnto their natural, and most manly and victorious fight againe, the dint and force whereof manie braue nations have both felt and feared. Our ploughmen haue mightily prevailed against them, as also against Maisters of Defence both in Schooles and countries, that have taken vpon the to stand vpon Schooletrickes and iugling gambolds: whereby it grew to a common speech among the countrie-men, Bring me to a Fencer, I will bring him out of his fence trickes with good downe right blowes, I will make him forget his fence trickes I will warrant him. I speake not against Maisters of Defence indeed, they are to be honoured, nor against the Science, it is noble, and in mine opinio to be preferred next to Diuinitie; for as Diuinitie preferueth the foule from hell and the diuell, fo doth this noble Science defend the bodie from wounds & slaughter. And moreover, the exercising of weapons putteth away aches, griefes, and diseases, it increaseth strength, and sharpneth the wits, it giueth a perfect judgement, it expelleth melancholy, cholericke and euill conceits, it keepeth a man in breath, perfect health, and long life. It is vnto him that hath the perfection thereof, a most friendly and comfortable companion when he is alone, having but only his weapon about him, it putteth him out of all feare, & in the warres and places of most danger it maketh him bold, hardie, and valiant.

And for as much as this noble and most mightie nation of Englishmen, of their good natures, are alwayes most louing, verie credulous, & ready to cherish & protect stragers: yet that through their good natures they neuer more by strangers or false teachers may be deceiued, once againe I am most humbly to admonish the, or fuch as shal find in themselves a disposition or defire to learne their weapons of them, that from henceforth as strangers shall take upon them to come hither to teach this noble & most valiant, & victorious nation to fight, that first, before they learne of them, they cause a sufficient triall of them to be made, whether the excellencie of their skill be such as they professe or no, the triall to be very requisite & reasonable, euen such as I my selse would be contented withall, if I should take vpon me to go in their countrie to teach their nation to fight. And this is the triall: they shall play with such weapos as they A great favor to professe to teach withall, three bouts apecce with three give them choice of the best English Maisters of Desence, & three bouts because professors apeece with three vnskilful valiant men, and three bouts of armes ought to apeece with three resolute men halfdrunke. Then if they maner of weapis. can defend theselues against these maisters of Desence, and hurt, and go free from the rest, then are they to be honored, cherished, and allowed for perfect good teachers, what countrey men focuer they be: but if of anie of these they take soile, then are they impersect in their profession, their fight is false, & they are false teachers, deceivers and murtherers, and to be punished accordingly, yet no worse punishment vnto them I wish, then such as in their triall they shall find.

An Admonitson.

There are foure especiall markes to know the Italian fight is imperfect. & that the Italian teachers and fetters forth of books of Defence, neuer had the perfection of the true fight.

the first marke is, they seldome fight in their 2 owne country vnarmed, commonly in this Yes they perfort, a paire of Gantlettes vpon their hands, frade vi that the and a good shirt of maile vpon their bodies. pier without hile The second marke is, that neither the Italians, nor any or gantlet is suffi-

Paradoxes of Defence.

George Siluer his of their best scholers do neuer fight, but they are most comonly fore hurt, or one or both of them slaine.

The third marke is, they neuer teach their scholers, nor fet downe in their bookes anie perfect lengthes of their weapons, without the which no man can by nature or Art against the perfect legth fight safe, for being too fhort, their times are too long, and spaces too wide for their defence, and being too long, they wilbe vpon euerie crosse that shall happen to be made, whether it be done by skil or chance, in great danger of death; because the Rapier being too long, the crosse cannot be vndone in due time, but may be done by going backe with the feete; but that time is alwaies too long to answere the time of the hand, therfore every man ought to have a weapon according to his owne stature: the tall man must have his weapon longer then the man of meane stature, or else he hath wrong in his defence, & the man of meane stature must have his weapon longer then the man of smal stature, or else he hath wrong in his defence; & the man of smal stature must beware that he feed not himself with this vaine coceipt, that he wil haue his weapon long, to reach as farre as the tall man, for therin he shal have great disaduantage, both in making of a strong croffe, and also in vncroffing againe, and in keeping his point from croffing, and when a croffe is made vpon him, to defend himself, or indanger his enemie, or to redeeme his lost times. Againe Rapiers longer, then is convenient to accord with the true statures of men, are alwaies too long or too heavie to keepe their bodies in due time from the croffe of the light fhort fword of perfect length, the which being made by the skilfull out of any of the foure true times, vpon any of the foure chiefe Acti-

Actions, by reason of the vncertaintie & great swiftnesse in any of these times, they are in great danger of a blow, or of a thrust in the hand, arme, head, body, or face, & in euerie true crosse in the vncrossing, in great danger of a blow vpon the head, or a full thrust in the bodie or face: and being taken in that time & place, the first mouer in vncrossing speedeth the Rapier man of imperfect legth, whether it be too long, too short or too heavie, and goeth free himselse by the direction of his gouernours.

The fourth marke is, the croffes of their Rapiers for true defence of their hands are imperfect, for the true cariage of the guardant fight, without the which all fights are imperfect.

Of fixe chiefe causes, that many valiant men thinking themselues by their practises to be skilfull in their weapons, are yet manie times in their fight fore hurt, and manie times slaine by men of small skill, or none at all.

He first and chiefest cause is, the lacke of the 3 foure Gouernours, without the which it is impossible to fight sase, although a man should practise most painfully and most diligently all the daies of his life.

The second cause is, the lacke of knowledge in the due observance of the foure Actions, the which we cal bent, fpent, lying fpent, and drawing backe: these Actions euerie man fighteth vpon, whether they be skilfull or vnskilfull, he that observeth them is safe, he that obserueth the not, is in cotinuall danger of euerie thrust that shalbe strongly made against him.

George Siluer his

The third cause is, they are unpractised in the source true times, neither do they know the true times fro the salse: therefore the true choise of their times are most commonly taken by chance, and seldome otherwise.

The fourth cause is, they are vnacquainted out of what fight, or in what maner they are to answer the variable fight: and therefore because the variable fight is the most easiest fight of all other, most comonly do answer the variable fight with the variable fight, which ought neuer to be but in the first distance, or with the short Sword against the long, because if both or one of them shall happen to prese, and that in due time of neither sidesight be changed, the distance, by reason of narrownesse of space, is broken, the place is won and lost of both sides, then he that thrusteth first, speedeth: if both happen to thrust together, they are both in dager. These things sometimes by true times, by change of fights, by chance are avoided.

The fift cause is, their weapons are most commonly too long to vncrosse without going backe with the feet.

The fixt cause is, their weapons are most commonly too heavie both to defend and offend in due time, & by these two last causes many valiat me have lost their lives.

What is the cause that wise men in learning or practising their weapons, are deceived with Italian Fencers.

No fight perfest that is not done in force & true time.

Here are foure causes: the first, their schoolmaisters are impersect: the second is, that whatsoever they teach, is both true & salse; true in their demostrations, according with their force & time in getle play, & in their actions actions according with true force & time in rough play or fight, false: for exaple, there is as much difference betwixt these two kind of fights, as there is betwixthe true picture of Sir Beuis of Southampton, & Sir Beuis himself, if he were living. The third, none ca ividge of the Crastbut the Crasts-man; the vnskilfull, be he never so wise, can not truly iudgeof his teacher, or skill, the which helearneth, being vnskilful himselfe. Lastly, & to confirme for truth all that shal be amisse, not only in this excellet Science of Desence, but in all other excellent secrets, most commonly the lye beareth as good a shew of truth, as

Paradoxes of Defence

Of the false resolutions and vaine opinions of Rapier-men, and of the danger of death thereby ensuing.

truth it selfe.

T is a great question, & especially amogst 4 the Rapier-men, who hath the vantage of the thruster, or of the warder. Some hold strongly, that the warder hath the vantage:

others say, it is most certain that the thruster hath the vantage. Now when two do happe to fight, being both of one mind, that the thruster hath the vantage, they make all shift they can, who shall give the first thrust: as for example, two Captaines at Southampton even as they were going to take shipping vpon the key, fel at strife, drew their Rapiers, and presently, being desperate, hardie or resolute, as they call it, with all force and ouer great speed, ran with their rapiers one at the other, & were both slaine. Now when two of the contrary opinion shall meet and fight, you shall see verie peaceable warresbetweene them: for they verily thinke that he

that first thrusteth is in great danger of his life, therefore with all speede do put themselues in ward, or Stocata, the furest gard of all other, as Vincentio saith, and therevpon they stand fure, faying the one to the other. thrust and thou dare; and saith the other, thrust and thou dare, or strike or thrust and thou dare, saith the other: then saith the other, strike or thrust and thou dare for thy life. These two cunning gentlemen standing long time together, vpon this worthie ward, they both depart in peace, according to the old prouerbe: It is good fleeping in a whole skinne. Againe if two shall fight, the one of opinion, that he that thrusteth hath the vantage, and the other of opinion, that the warder hath the vantage, then most commonly the thruster being valiant, with all speed thrusteth home, and by reason of the time and swift motion of his hand, they are most commonly with the points of their rapiers, or daggers, or both, one or both of them hurt or flaine; because their spaces of defence in that kind of fight, are too wide in due time to defend, and the place being wonne, the eye of the Patient by the swift motion of the Agents hand, is deceived. Another resolution they stand sure vpon for their lines, to kill their enemies, in the which they are most commonly slaine themselves: that is this: When they find the point of their enemies rapier out of the right line, they say, they may boldly make home a thrust with a Passata, the which they observe, and do accordingly: but the other having a shorter time with his hand, as nature manie times teacheth him, fodainly turneth his wrist, whereby he meeteth the other in his pasfage iust with the point of his rapier in the face or body. And this false resolution hath cost manie a life.

That the cause that manie are so often staine, and manie fore hurt in fight with long Rapiers is not by reason of their dangerous thrusts, nor cunningnesse of that Italienated sight, but in the length and vnweildinesse thereof.

T is most certaine, that men may with fhort swords both strike, thrust, false and double, by reason of their distance and nimblenesse thereof, more dangerously then they can with long Rapiers: and yet when two fight with short swordes, having true fight, there is no hurt done: neither is it possible in anie reason, that anie hurt should be done betwixt them of either fide, and this is well knowne to all fuch as haue the perfection of true fight. By this it plainely appeareth, that the cause of the great slaughter, and sundrie hurts done by long Rapiers, consisteth not in long Reach, dangerous thrustes, nor cunningnesse of the Italian fight, but in the inconvenient length, and vnweildinesse of their long Rapiers: whereby it commonly falleth out, that in all their Actions appertaining to their defence, they are vnable, in due time to performe, and continually in danger of euerie crosse, that shall happen to be made with their rapier blades, which being done, within the halfe rapier; (vnlesse both be of one mind with all speed to depart, which feldome or neuer happneth betweene men of valiant disposition,) it is impossible to vncrosse, or get out, or to avoid the stabbes of the Daggers. And this hath falne out manie times amongst valiant men at those weapons. C

Of running and standing fast in Rapier sight, the runner hath the vantage.

F two valiant men do fight being both cunning in running, & that they both vse the same at one instant, their course is doubled, the place is wonne of both fides, and one or both of them will commonly be flaine or fore hurt: and if one of them shall runne, and the other stand fast upon the Imbrocata or Stocata, or howfoeuer, the place wilbe at one instant wonne of one fide, and gained of the other, and one or both of them wilbe hurt or slaine: if both shall prese hard vpon the guard, he that first thrusteth home in true place, hurteth the other: & if both thrust together, they are both hurt: yet some vantage the runner hath, because he is an vncertaine marke, and in his motion: the other is a certaine marke, and in a dead motion: and by reason thereof manie times the vnskilfull man taketh vantage he knoweth not how, against him that lyeth watching vpon his ward or Stocata guard.

Of striking and thrusting both together.

It is strongly holden of manie, that if in fight they find their enemy to have more skill then themselves, they presently will continually strike, & thrust iust with him, whereby they will make their fight as good as his and thereby have as good advantage as the good as his, and thereby have as good advantage as the other with all his skill: but if their swordes be longer then the other, then their advantage is great; for it is certaine certaine (say they) that an inch will kill a man: but if their swordes be much longer then the other, then their advantage is so great, that they wilbe sure by thrusting and striking iust with the other, that they will alwaies hurt him that hath the short sword, and go cleare themselues, because they will reach him, when he shall not reach them. These men speake like such as talke of Robin Hoode, that neuer shot in his bow; for to strike or thrust iust together with a man of skill, lyeth not in the will of the ignorant, because the skilfull man alwaies fighteth vpon the true times, by the which the vnskilfull is still disappointed of both place and time, and therefore driven of necessitie still to watch the other, when & what he will doe; that is, whether he will strike, thrust, or false: if the vnskilfull strike or thrust in the time of falfing, therein he neither striketh nor thrusteth iust with the other: he may faie, he hath stroke or thrust before him, but not just with him, nor to anie good purpose; for in the time of falling, if he strike or thrust, he striketh or thrusteth too short: for in that time he hath neither time nor place to strike home, and as it is said. the vnskilfull man, that will take vpon him to strike or thrust inst with the skilfull, must first behold what the man of skil will doe, and when he will doe it, and therfore of necessitie is driven to suffer the skilfull man to be the first mouer, and entred into his Action, whether it be blow or thrust, the truth therof in reason cannot be denied. Now judge whether it be possible for an vnskilfull man to strike or thrust iust together with a man of skill; but the skilfull man can most certainly strike and thrust iust together with the vnskilfull, because the vnskilfull fighteth vpon false times, which being too long to answere the true times, the skilfull fighting vpon the true times, although the vnskilfull be the first mouer, & entred into his Action, whether it be blow or thrust; yet the shortnesse of the true times maketh at the pleafure of the skilfull a just meeting together: in perfect fight two neuer strike or thrust together, because they neuer suffer place nor time to performe it.

Two vnskilfull men manie times by chance strike and thruste together, chance vnto them, because they know not what they doe, or how it commeth to passe: but the reasons or causes be these. Sometimes two false times meet & make a iust time together, & sometimes a true time and a false time meeteth and maketh a just time together, and fometimes two true times meet and make a just time together. And all this hapneth because the true time and place is vnknowne vnto them.

George Siluer his resolution upon that hidden or doubtfull question, who hath the advantage of the Offender or Defender.

he aduantage is strongly holden of many to be in the offender, yea in somuch, that if two minding to offend in their fight, it I is thought to be in him that first striketh or thrusteth. Others strongly hold opinion that the wardr absolutely hath still the advantage, but these opinions as they are contrary the one to the other: fo are they contrarie to true fight, as may well be feene by these short examples. If the advantage be in the warder, then it is not good anie time to strike or thrust: if the aduantage be in the striker or thruster, then were it a friuolous

a friuolous thing to learne to ward, or at anie time to sceke to ward, since in warding lieth disaduantage. Now may it plainly by these examples appeare, that if there be anie perfection in fight, that both fides are deceived in their opinions, because if the striker or thruster have the advantage, then is the warder still in danger of wounds or death. And againe, if the warder hath the advantage, then is the striker or thruster in as great daunger to defend himselfe against the warder, because the warder from his wards, taketh advantage of the striker or thruster vpon euerie blow or thrust, that shall be made against him. Then thus I conclude. that if there be perfection in the Science of Defence, they are all in their opinons deceived; and that the truth may appeare for the fatisfaction of all men. this is my resolution: there is no advantage absolutely, nor disaduantage in striker, thruster, or warder: and there is a great advantage in the striker thruster & warder: but in this maner, in the perfection of fight the aduantage consisteth in fight betweene partie and partie: that is, who foeuer winneth or gaineth the place in true pace, space and time, hath the advantage, whether he be striker, thruster or warder. And that is my refolution.

Of Spanish fight with the Rapier.

He Spaniard is now thought to be a better 9 man with his Rapier then is the Italian, Frenchman, high Almaine, or anie other countrie man whatsoeuer, because they in their Rapier-fight stand upon so manie intricate trickes, that in all the course of a mans life it shall be hard to learne them, and if they misse in doing the least of them in their fight, they are in danger of death. But the Spaniard in his fight, both safely to desend himselse, and to endanger his enemie, hath but one onely lying, and two wards to learne, wherein a man with small practise in a verie short time may become perfect.

George Siluer bis

This is the maner of Spanish fight, they stand as braue as they can with their bodies straight vpright, narrow spaced, with their feet continually mouing, as if they were in a dance, holding forth their armes and Rapiers verie straight against the face or bodies of their enemies: & this is the only lying to accomplish that kind of fight. And this note, that as long as any man shall lie in that maner with his arme, and point of his Rapier straight, it shall be impossible for his adversarie to hurt him, because in that straight holding forth of his arme, which way soeuer a blow shall be made against him, by reason that his Rapier hilt lyeth so farre before him, he hath but a verie litle way to moue, to make his ward perfect, in this maner. If a blow be made at the right fide of the head, a verie litle mouing of the hand with the knuckles vpward defendeth that fide of the head or bodie, and the point being still out straight, greatly endangereth the striker: and so likewise, if a blow be made at the left fide of the head, a verie small turning of the wrist with the knuckles downward, defendeth that side of the head and bodie, and the point of the Rapier much indangereth the hand, arme, face or bodie of the striker: and if anie thrust be made, the wards, by reason of the indirections in moving the feet in maner of dauncing, as aforesaid, maketh a perfect ward, and still withall the point greatly endangereth the other. And thus is the Spanish fight persect: so long as you can keepe that order, and soone learned, and therefore to be accounted the best fight with the Rapier of all other. But note how this Spanish fight is persect, and you shall see no longer then you can keepe your point straight against your adversarie: as for example, I have heard the like iest.

There was a cunning Doctor at his first going to sea, being doubtfull that he should be sea-sicke, an old woman perceiuing the same, said vnto him: Sir, I pray, be of good comfort, I will teach you a tricke to auoid that doubt; here is a fine pibble stone, if you please to accept it, take it with you, and when you be on ship-bord, put it in your mouth, and as long as you shall keepe the same in your mouth, vpon my credit you shall neuer vomit: the Doctor beleeued her, and tooke it thankfully at her hands, and when he was at sea, he began to be sicke, whereupon he presently put the stone in his mouth, at there kept it so long as he possibly could, but through his extreme sicknesse the stone with vomit was cast out of his mouth: then presently he remebred how the woman had mocked him, and yet her words were true.

Euen so a Spaniard having his Rapier point put by, may receive a blow on the head, or a cut over the face, hand, or arme, or a thrust in the body or face, and yet his Spanish fight perfect, so long as he can keepe straight the point of his Rapier against the face or body of his adversarie: which is as easie in that maner of fight to be done, as it was for the Doctor in the extremity of his vomite to keepe the stone in his mouth.

Yet one other pretie iest more, scarce worth the reading, in commendation of outlandish fight. There was an Italian teacher of Defence in my time, who was fo excellent in his fight, that he would have hit anie English man with a thrust, iust vpon any button in his doublet, and this was much spoken of.

Also there was another cunning man in catching of wildgeese, he would have made no more ado, when he had heard them crie, as the maner of wildgeefe is, flying one after another in rowes, but presently looking vp. would tell them, if there had benea dosen, fixteene, twetie, or more, he would have taken euerie one. And this tale was manie times told by men of good credit, and much maruelled at by the hearers: & the man that wold haue taken the wildgeese, was of good credite himselse: marie they said, indeed he did neuer take anie, but at anie time when he had looked vp, and seene them slie in that maner, he would with all his heart have taken the. but he could no more tell how to do it, then could the cunning Italian Fencer tell how to hit an Englishman, with a thrust iust vpon any one of his buttons, when he listed.

Illusions for the maintenance of imperfect weapons & false fights, to feare or discourage the unskilfull in their weapons, from taking a true course or vse, for attaining to the perfect knowledge of true fight.

Irst, for the Rapier (saith the Italian, or sasse teacher) I hold it to be a perfect good wea-po, because the crosse hindreth not to hold the handle in the hand, to thrust both far & straight, & to vse all maner of advantages in the wards,

Paradoxes of Defence.

or sodainly to cast the same at the adversarie, but with the Sword you are driven with all the strength of the hand to hold fast the handle. And in the warres I would wish no friend of mine to weare Swords with hilts, because when they are sodainly set vpon, for haste they set their hands upon their hilts in steed of their handles: in which time it hapneth manie times before they can These counterfeit draw their fwords, they are flaine by their enemies. And from are enough for Sword and Ruckler fight it is impacted because at to cary the wifeft for Sword and Buckler fight, it is imperfect, because the that know not the buckler blindeth the fight, neither would I have anie true fight fro the man lie aloft with his hand aboue his head, to strike false, out of the found blowes. Strong blowes are naught, especially being fet aboue the head, because therein all the face and And if their mea bodie is discouered. Yet I confesse, in old times, when pens were fort, blowes were only vsed with short Swords & Bucklers, & as in times past back Sword, these kind of fights were good & most ma-they were, yet ly, but now in these daies fight is altered. Rapiers are lo-thrust safe at beger for aduatage the swords were wot to be: whe blowes for face, became were vsed, men were so simple in their fight, that they they fall over, or thought him to be a coward, that wold make a thrust or wider the perfet strike a blow beneath the girdle. Againe, if their weapos crefted the foord were short, as in times past they were, yet fight is better meth the waste, looked into in these dayes, than then it was. Who is it in or at the legges, is these daies seeth not that the blow copasseth round like great disaduana wheele, whereby it hath a longer way to go, but the course of the blow thrust passeth in a straight line, and therefore commeth to the legs is the a nearer way, and done in a shorter time the is the blow, bead, face, & boand is more deadly then is the blow? Therefore there is by is discoursed: no wife man that will strike, vnlesse he be wearie and that was the of his life. It is certaine, that the point for advantage that they did not cuerie way in fight is to be vsed, the blow is vtterly thrust nor strike naught, and not to be vsed. He that fighteth vpon the for lacke of skill,

George Siluer bis

as in these daies blow especially with a short sword, wilbe fore hurt or we imagine. A- flaine. The deuill can say no more for the maintenance. in these daies of errors. foold have fought with a long prefently have put him into Gobbes Trauers.

food, they would That a blow commeth continually as neare a way as a thrust. and most commonly nearer, stronger, more swifter, and is sooner

A confutation of their errours.

He blow, by reaso that it compasses round like a wheele, whereby it hath a longer way to come, as the Italian Fenser saith, & that the thrust passing in a straight line, commeth a nearer way, and therefore is sooner done then a blow. is not true: these be the proofes.

Let two lie in their perfect strengths and readinesse. wherein the blades of their Rapiers by the motion of the body, may not be croffed of either fide, the one to strike, and the other to thrust. Then measure the distance or course wherein the hand and hilt passeth to finish the blow of the one, and the thrust of the other, and you shall find them both by measure, in distance all one. And let anie man of iudgement being seene in the exercise of weapons, not being more addicted vnto nouelties of fight, then vnto truth it felfe, put in measure, and practife these three fights, variable, open, and guardant, and he shall see, that whensoeuer anie man lyeth at the thrust vpon the variable fight, (where of necessitie most commonly he lyeth, or otherwise not possiblie to keepe his Rapier from croffing at the blow & thrust, vpon the open or gardant fight,) that the blowes & thrustes from these two fightes, come a nearer way, and a more ftronger

Paradoxes of Defence. fronger and swifter course then doth the thrust, out of the variable fight. And thus for a generall rule, wheresoeuer the Thruster lyeth, or out of what fight soeuer he fighteth, with his Rapier, or Rapier and Dagger, the blow in his course commeth as neare, and nearer, and more swift and stronger then doth the thrust.

Perfect fight standeth upon both blow and thrust, therefore the thrust is not onely to be weed.

Hat there is no fight perfect without both 12 blow and thrust: neither is there anie certaine rule to be set downe for the vse of the point onely, these be the reasons: In fight This point onely, these be the reasons: In fight This in truth

there are manie motions, with the hand, bodie, and feet, and in eueric motion the place of the hand is altered. & because by the motions of the hand, the altering of the places of the hand, the changes of lyings, wards, and breaking of thrustes, the hand will sometimes be in place to strike, some times to thrust, sometimes after a blow to thrust, and sometimes after a thrust to strike, & fometimes in place where you may strike, and cannot thrust without losse of time, and sometimes in place where you may thrust, and cannot strike without losse of time, and fometimes in place where you can neither strike nor thrust, vnlesse you fight vpon both blow and thrust, nor able to defend your selfe by ward or going backe, because your space wilbe too wide, and your distance lost. And sometimes when you have made a thrust, a ward or breaking is taken in such fort with the Dagger or blade of the Sword, that you ca neither thrust againe, nor defend your felfe vnlesse you dostrike, which you may foundly doe, and go free, and fometimes when you strike, a ward wilbetaken in such fort, that you cannot strike againe, nor defend your selfe, vnlesse von thrust, which you may safely doe and goe free . So to conclude, there is no perfection in the true fight, without both blow and thrust, nor certaine rule to be set downe for the point onely.

That the blow is more dangerous and deadly in fight, then a thrust, for proofe thereof to be made according with Art. an Englishman holdeth argument against an Italian.

Italian.

13 Hich is more dangerous or deadly in fight of a blow or a thrust?

Englishman.

This question is not propounded according to art, because there is no fight perfect without both blow and thrust.

Italian.

Let it be so, yet opinions are otherwise holden, that the thrust is onely to be vsed, because it commeth a nearer way, and is more dangerous and deadly, for these reasons: first the blow compasseth round like a wheele, but the thrust passeth in a straight line, therfore the blow by reason of the compasse, hath a longer way to go then the thrust, & is therefore longer in doing, but the thrust passeth in a straight line, therfore hath shorter way to go the hath the blow, & is therfore done in ashorter time. & is therfore much better then the blow, & more dangerous and deadly, because if a thrust do hit the face or bodie, it indangereth life, and most commonly death enfueth: but if the blow hit the bodie, it is not so dagerous. Englishman.

Let your opinios be what they wil, but that the thrust cometh a nearer way, & is sooner done then the blow, is not true: & for proofe thereof reade the twelfth Paradox. And now will I fet downe probable reasons, that the The blow more blow is better then the thrust, and more dangerous and dangerous then deadly. First, the blow commeth as neare a way, & most the threst. comonly nearer then doth the thrust, & is therfore done in a shorter time then is the thrust: therfore in respect of time, wherupon stadeth the perfection of fight, the blow is much better then the thrust. Againe, the force of the thrust passeth straight, therefore any crosse being indirectly made, the force of a child may put it by: but the force of a blow passeth indirectly, therefore must be directly warded in the counterchecke of his force: which canot be done but by the couenient strength of a man, & with true crosse in true time, or else will not safely desed him: and is therfore much better, & more dagerous the the thrust, and againe, the thrust being made through the hand, arme, or leg, or in many places of the body and face, are not deadly, neither are they maimes, or losse of limmes or life, neither is he much hindred for the time in his fight, as long as the bloud is hot: for example.

I haue knowne a Getlema hurt in Rapier fight, in nine or ten places through the bodie, armes, and legges, and yet hath continued in his fight, & afterward hath slaine the other, and come home and hath bene cured of all his The blow cutters woulds without maime, & is yet living. But the blow be- of the hand, the ing strongly made, taketh somtimes cleane away the hand formetimes the from the arme, hath manie times bene seene. Againe, head, a full blow upon the head or face with a short sharpe Sword, is most commonly death. A full blow vpon the necke, shoulder, arme, or legge, indangereth life, cutteth off the veines, muscles, and sinewes, perisheth the bones: these wounds made by the blow, in respect of persect healing, are the losse of limmes, or maimes incurable for euer.

And yet more for the blow: a ful blow vpon the head, face, arme, leg, or legs, is death, or the partie so wounded in the mercie of him that shall so wound him. For what man shall be able long in fight to stand vp, either to reuenge, or defend himselfe, hauing the veines, muscles, and sinewes of his hand, arme, or leg cleane cut assumder? or being dismembred by such wound vpon the face or head, but shall be enforced therby, and through the losse of bloud, the other a litle dallying with him, to yeeld himself, or leave his life in his mercie?

He that giveth the first wound with a strong blow, commaundeth the life of the other.

And for plainer deciding this cotrouersie betweene the blow and the thrust, consider this short note. The blow commeth manie wayes, the thrust doth not so. The blow commeth a nearer way then a thrust most commonly, and is therefore sooner done. The blow requireth the strength of a man to be warded; but the thrust may be put by, by the sorce of a child. A blow vpon the hand, arme, or legge is a maime incurable; but a thrust in the hand, arme, or legge is to be recoursed. The blow hath manie parts to wound, and in euerie of them commaundeth the life; but the thrust hath but a few, as the bodie or sace, and not in euerie part of them neither.

Of the difference betwixt the true fight & the false: wherin confisteth (the Principles being had with the direction of the foure Gouernors) the whole perfection of fight with all maner of weapons.

He true fights be these: whatsoeuer is 14 done with the hand before the foot or feet is true fight. The false fights be these: whatsoeuer is done with the foot or feet before the hand, is false, because the hand is fwifter then the foot, the foot or feet being a flower mouer then the hand: the hand in that maner of fight is tied to the time of the foot or feet, and being tied thereto, hath lost his freedome, and is made thereby as flow in his motions as the foot or feet: and therfor that fight is false.

23

Of euill orders or customes in our English Fèce-schooles, & of the old or ancient teaching of weapons, & things very necessarie to be continued for the avoiding of errors, and reviving and continuance of our ancient weapons, and most victorious sight againe.

Here is in my opinio in our Fence-schooles 15 an euill order or custome in these dayes vssed, the which, if it might stand with the good liking of our Maisters of Desence, I thinke it necessarie to be lest: for as long as it is vsed, it shall be hard to make a good Scholler.

That is this, at the fingle Sword, Sword and Dagger, & Sword and Buckler, they forbid the thrust, & at the single Rapier, and Rapier & Dagger, they forbid the blow. Either they are both together best, or the thrust altogether best, or the blow altogether best. If the thrust be best, why do we not vie it at the single Sword, Sword & Dagger, & Sword and Buckler. If the blow be best, why do we not vse it at the single Rapier, Rapier & Poinyard? But knowing by the Art of Armes, that no fight is perfect without both blow and thrust, why do we not vse and teach both blow and thrust? But howsoeuer this we dayly see, that whe two meet in fight, whether they have skill or none, vnlesse such as have tied theselves to that boyish, Italian, weake, imperfect fight, they both strike and thrust, and how shall he then do, that being much taught in schoole, neuer learned to strike, nor how to defend a strong blow? & how shall he the do, that being brought vp in Fece-schoole, that neuer learned to thrust with the fingle Sword, Sword and Dagger, and Sword and Buckler, nor how at these weapos to breake a thrust? Surely, I thinke a downe right fellow, that neuer came in schoole, vsing such skill as nature yeeldeth out of his courage, strength, and agilitie, with good downe right blowes and thrusts among, as shall best frame in his hands, shold put one of these impersect schollers greatly to his shifts. Besides, there are now in these dayes no gripes, closes, wrestlings, striking with the hilts, daggers, or bucklers, vsed in Fence-schooles. Our ploughmen by nature wil do all these things with great stregth & agility: but the Schooleman is altogether vnacquainted with these things. He being fast tyed to such schoolplay as he hath learned, hath lost thereby the benefite

Paradoxes of Defence. of nature, and the plowman is now by nature without art a farre better man then he. Therefore in my opinion. as long as we barre anie maner of play in schoole, we shall hardly make a good scholler: there is no maner of teaching comparable to the old ancient teaching, that is, first their quarters, then their wardes, blowes, thrusts, and breaking of thrustes, then their Closes and Gripes, striking with the hilts, Daggers, Bucklers, Wrastlings, striking with the foote or knee in the Coddes, and all these are safely defended in learning perfectly of the Gripes. And this is the ancient teaching, the perfectest In the warren & most best teaching; and without this teaching, there nation of Stoccashall neuer scholler be made able, doe his vttermost, tai, Imbrecatai, nor fight safe. Against their swords in schooles are too simes, nor and long by almost halfe a foote to proceed without principle. long by almost halfe a foote to vncrosse, without going backe with the feete, within distance or perfectly to strike or thrust within the halfe or quarter sword. And in feruing of the Prince, when men do meet together in publique fight, are vtterly naught and vnseruiceable. The best lengthes for perfect teaching of the true fight Long suspens to be vied and continued in Fence schooles, to accord impersion. with the true statures of all men, are these. The blade to be a yard and an inch for meane statures, and for men of tall statures, a yard and three or foure inches, and no more. And I would have the Rapier continued in schooles, alwaies readie for such as shall thinke themfelues cunning, or shall have delight to play with that imperfect weapon. Prouided alwaies, that the Schoolemaister or Vsher play with him with his short Sword, plying him with all maner of fight according to the true art: this being continued the truth shall flourish, the lye shalbe beaten downe, and all nations not ha-

26 George Silver his
uing the true science, shall come with all gladnesse to the valiant and most brave English maisters of Desence to learne the true fight for their desence.

The grounds or Principles of true fight with all maner of weapons.

16

Irst Iudgement, Lyings, Distance, Direction, Pase, Space, Place, Time, Indirection, Motion, Action, generall and continual Motion, Progression, Regression, Trauersing, and Treading of groundes, Blowes, Thrustes, Faulses, Doubles, Slipes, Wardes, breakings of Thrusts, Closings, Gripes, & Wrastlings, Guardant fight, Open fight, Variable fight, and Close fight, and foure Gouernours.

The wardes of all maner of weapons.

L fingle weapons have foure wardes, and all double weapons have eight wardes. The fingle fword hath two with the point vp, and two with the point downe. The Staffe and all maner of weapons to be v-fed with both handes have the like.

The Sword and Buckler, and Sword and Dagger are double weapons, and haue eight wardes, two with the point vp, and two with the point downe, and two for the legges with the point downe, the point to be caried for both fides of the legges, with the knuckles downeward, and two wardes with the Dagger or Buckler for the head. The Forrest bill is a double weapon by reason

Paradoxes of Defence. 27 of the head, and therefore hath eight wardes, foure with the Staffe, foure with the head, foure of them to be vsed as with the staffe, and the other foure with the head, the one vp, the other downe, and the other sidewaies.

The names and numbers of times appertaining unto fight both true and false.

Here are eight times, whereof foure are 18 true, and foure are false: the true times be these.

The time of the hand.

The time of the hand and bodie.

The time of the hand, bodie and foote.

The time of the hand, bodie and feete.

The false times be these.

The time of the foote.

The time of the foote and bodie.

The time of the foote, bodie and hand.

The time of the feete, bodie and hand.

Thus haue I thought good to separate and make knowne the true times from the salse, with the true wardes thereto belonging, that thereby the rather in practising of weapons, a true course may be taken for the auoiding of errours and euill customes, and speedie attaining of good habit or perfect being in the true vse and knowledge of all maner of weapons.

Of the length of weapons, and how everie man may fit himfelfe in the perfect length of his weapon, according to his owne stature, with briefe reafons wherefore they ought to be so.

٦f

O know the perfect length of your Sword, you shall stand with your sword and dagger drawn, as you see this picture, keeping out straight your dagger arme, drawinge backe your fword as far as conveniently you can, not opening the elbow iount of your fword arme: and looke what you can draw within your dagger, that is the just length of your fword, to be made according to your owne stature.

If the found be longer, you can hardly oncresse without going backe with your feet. If Borter. the you can bardly make a true croffe without putting in of your feet the which times are too long to answer the time of the band.

The like reasons for the foort staffe, balf Pike. Forrest bill, Partifan, or Gleue, or such like weapons of perfett length.

Paradoxes of Defence.

The perfect length of your two hand fword is, the blade to be the length of the blade of your fingle fword.

To know the perfect length of your short staffe, or half Pike, Forrest bil, Partisan, or Gleue, or such like weapons of vantage and perfect lengths, you shall stand vpright, holding the staffevpright close by your body, with your left had, reaching with your right hand your staffe as high as you can, and then allow to that length a space to fet both your hands, when you come to fight, wherein you may conveniently strike, thrust, and ward, & that is the just length to be made according to your stature. And this note, that these lengths will commonly fall out to be eight or nine foot long, and will fit, although not iust, the statures of all men, without any hindrance at all vnto them in their fight, because in any weapon wherin the hands may be remoued, and at libertie, to make the weapon loger or shorter in fight at his pleasure, a foot of the staffe behind the backmost hand doth no harme. And wherfore these weapons ought to be of the lengths aforesaid, and no shorter, these are the reasons: If they should be shorter, then the long staffe, Morris Pike, and such like weapons ouer and aboue the perfect length. should have great vantage against them, because he may come boldly and fafe without anie gard or ward, to the place where he may thrust home, and at every thrust put him in danger of his life: but if these weapons be of their perfect lengths, then can the long staffe, the Morris Pike, or anie other longer weapon ly nowhere in true space, but shall be still within compasse of the crosse, to crosse and vncrosse, wherby he may safely passe home to the place, where he may strike or thrust him that hath the long weapon, in the head, face, or body at his pleasure.

Paradoxes of Defence. The Sword & Target hath aduatage against the Sword

Of the lengths of the Battel axe, Halbard, or blacke Bill. or fuch like weapons of weight, appertaining unto gard or battell.

N anie of these weapons there needeth no iust length, but commonly they are, or ought to be fine or fixe foot long, & may not well be vsed much longer, because of their weights: and being weapons for the warres or battell, when men are joyned close together, may thrust, & strike sound blowes, with great force both strong and quicke: and finally for the just lengths of all other shorter or longer weapons to be gouerned with both hands, there is none: neither is there anie certaine lengthes in anie maner of weapons to be vsed with one hand, ouer or vnder the iust length of the single sword. Thus endeth the length of weapons.

Of the vantages of weapons in their kinds, places, & times, both in private and publike fight.

21 Figure 1 I will begin with the worst weapon, 🔋 an imperfect and infufficient weapon, and not worth the speaking of; but now being highly esteemed, therefore not to be left vnremembred; that is, the fingle Rapier, and Rapier and Poiniard.

The fingle Sword hath the vantage against the fingle Rapier.

The Sword and Dagger hath the vantage against the Rapier and Poiniard. The and Dagger, or Rapier and Poiniard. The Sword and Buckler hath advantage against the Sword and Target, the Sword and Dagger, or Rapier and Poiniard.

The two hand Sword, hath the vantage against the Sword and Target, the Sword and Buckler, the Sword and Dagger, or Rapier and Poiniard.

The Battel-axe, the Halbard, the Blacke-bill, or fuch like weapons of weight, appertaining vnto guard or battell, are all one in fight, and have advantage against the two hand Sword, the Sword and Buckler, the Sword and Target, the Sword & dagger, or the Rapier & Poiniard.

The short staffe or halfe Pike, Forrest-bill, Partisan, or Gleue, or such like weapons of perfect length, haue the vantage against the Battel-axe, the Halbard, the Blacke-bill, the two hand fword, the Sword and Target, and are too hard for two Swords and Daggers, or two Rapiers and Poiniards with Gantlets, and for the long staffe and Morris Pike.

The long Staffe, Morris Pike, or Iauelin, or such like weapons aboue the perfect length, have advantage against all maner of weapons, the short staffe, Welch hooke, Partifan, or Gleue, or fuch like weapons of vantage excepted: yet too weake for two Swords and Daggers or two Swords and Bucklers, or two Rapiers and Poiniards with Gantlets, because they are too long to thrust, strike, and turne speedily: and by reason of the large distance, one of the Sword and Dagger-men will get behind him.

The Welch hooke or Forrest bill, hath aduantage against all maner of weapons whatsoeuer.

George Siluer his

Yet vnderstand, that in battels, and where varietie of weapons be, amongst multitudes of men and horses, the Sword and Target, the two hand Sword, the Battel-axe. the Blacke-bill, and Halbard, are better weapons, and more dangerous in their offence and forces, then is the Sword and Buckler, short staffe, long staffe, or Forrest bill. The Sword and Target leadeth vpon Shot, and in troupes defendeth thrusts and blowes given by battelaxe, Halbards, Blacke-bill, or two hand swords, far better then can the Sword and Buckler.

The Morris Pike defendeth the battell from both horse and man, much better then can the short staffe. long staffe, or Forrest bill. Againe, the Battel-axe, the Halbard, the Blacke bill, the two hand fword, and Sword & Target, amongst armed men and troopes, when men are come together, by reason of their weights, shortnesse, and great forces, do much more offend the enemie, & are then much better weapons, then is the short staffe, the long Staffe, or Forrest bill.

Of the insufficiencie and disaduantages of the Rapiers-fight in Battell.

Or the fingle Rapier, or Rapier & Poiniard, they are imperfect & infufficient weapons: and especially in the service of the Prince, when men shall ioyne together, what seruice can a fouldier do with a Rapier, a childish toy wherwith a man can do nothing but thrust, nor that neither, by reason of the length, and in euerie mouing when blowes are a dealing, for lacke of a hilt is in daunger to have his hand or arme cut off, or his head clouen? clouen. And for Wardes and Gripes, they have none, neither can any of these fine Rapier men, for lacke of vse, tell howe to strike a found blow.

Of the vantages and sufficiencie of the short Sword fight in battell.

He short Sword, and Sword and Dagger, 23 are perfect good weapons, and especially in service of the Prince. What a braue weapon is a short sharpe light Sword, to carie, to draw, to be nimble withall, to strike, to cut, to thrust both strong and quicke. And what a goodly defence is a strong single hilt, when men are clustering and hurling together, especially where varietie of weapons be, in their motions to defend the hand, head, face, and bodies, from blowes, that shalbe given sometimes with Swordes, fometimes with two handed Swordes, battell Axe, Halbardes, or blacke Billes, and sometimes men shalbe so neare together, that they shall have no space, scarce to vse the blades of their Swordes belowe their wastes, then their hilts (their handes being aloft) defendeth from the blowes, their handes, armes, heads, faces, and bodies: then they lay on, hauing the vse of blowes and Gripes, by force of their armes with their hilts, strong blowes, at the head, face, armes, bodies, and shoulders, and manie times in hurling together, scope is given to turne downe their points, with violent thrusts at their faces, and bodies, by reason of the shortnesse of their blades, to the mightie annoyance, discomfort, and great destruction of their enimies. One valiant man with a Sword in his hand, will doe better seruice, then ten Italians, or Italienated with the Rapiers.

That all maner of double weapons, or weapons to be vsed with both handes, have advantage against the fingle Rapier or fingle Sword, there is no question to be made.

That the Sword and Buckler hath the vantage against the Sword and Dagger.

24 He Dagger is an imperfect ward, although borne out straight, to make the Space narrow, whereby by a litle mouing of the hand, may be sufficient to saue both fides of the head, or to breake the thrust from the face or body, yet for lacke of the circumference his hand will lie too high or too low, or too weake, to defend both blowand thrust: if he lye straight with narrow space, which is best to breake the thrust, then he lieth too weake, and too lowe to defend his head from a strong blow: if he lye high, that is strong to defend his head, but then his space wilbe too wide to breake the thrust from his bodie. The Dagger serueth well at length to put by a thrust, and at the halfe Sword to crosse the Sword blade, to drive out the Agent, and put him in danger of his life, and fafely in anie of these two actions to defend himselfe. But the Buckler, by reason of his circumference and weight, being well caried, defendeth fafely in all times and places, whether it be at the point, haife Sword, the head, bodie, and face, from all maner of blowes and thrustes whatsoeuer, yet I have heard manie hold opinion, that the Sword and Dagger hath aduantage of the Sword and Buckler, at the Close, by reafon of the length and point of the Dagger: and at the point point of the Sword, they can better see to ward then with a Buckler. But I neuer knew anie, that wanne the Close with the Dagger vpon the Sword and Budkler, but did wish himselfe out againe: for distance being broken, judgement faileth, for lacke of time to judge, and the eie is deceived by the swift motion of the hand, and for lacke of trueSpacewith the dagger hand, which cannot be otherwise, for lacke of the circumference to defend both blow and thrust, it is impossible for lacke of true Space in iust time, the agent having gotten the true place, to defend one thrust or blow of an hundred. And it is most certaine, whosoeuer closeth with Sword and Dagger, against the Sword and Buckler, is in great danger to be flaine. Likewise at the point within distance, if he stand to defend both blow and thrust with his Dagger, for lacke of true space and distance, if he had the best eye of anie man, and could see perfectly, which way the thrust or blow commeth, and when it commeth, as it is not to be denied but he may, yet his space being too large, it helpeth him nothing, because one mans hand being as swift as another mans hand, both being within distance, he that strikethor thrusteth, hurteth the warder: the reason is this: the Agent being in the first motion although in his offence, further to go

then the warder to defend, yet the warders space being too large, the blow or thrust wilbe performed home, before the warder can come to the true place to defend himselfe, and although the warder doe persectly see the blow or thrust comming, so shall he see his owne ward so farre from the true place of his defence, that although

Paradoxes of Defence.

he doe at that instant time, plainly see the blow or thrust comming, it shalbe impossible for him to recouer the

ued by the fwift

true place of his ward, till he be wounded. But let the warder with the dagger fay, that it is not true which I haue faid, for as he hath eies to behold the blow or thrust coming, so hath he as good time to defend himself. Herein he shal find himself deceived to; this is the reason: the hand is the swiftest motion, the foot is the slowest, without distance the hand is tied to the motion of the feet. wherby the time of the hand is made as flow as the foot. because thereby we redeeme eueric time lost vpon his comming by the flow motion of the foot, & haue time therby to judge, whe & how he can performe any actio whatfoeuer, and so have we the time of the hand to the time of the feet. Now is the had in his owne course more fwifter then the foot or eye, therfore within distance the eye is deceived, & iudgement is lost; and that is another cause that the warder with the dagger, although he haue The eye is decei- perfect eyes, is stil within distance deceived. For proofe motion of the had, that the hand is more swifter then the eye, & thereby deceiueth the eyes:let two stand within distance, & let one of the stand still to defend himself, & let the other storish & false with his hand, and he shall continually with the fwift motions of his hand, deceive the eyes of him that standeth watching to defend himselfe, & shal continually strike him in diverse places with his hand. Againe, take this for an example, that the eyes by swift motions are deceived: turne a turne-wheele swift, & you shall not be able to discerne with your best eies how many spokes be in the wheele, no nor whether there be any spokes at all, or whereof the wheele is made, and yet you see when the wheele standeth still there is a large distance betweene

euerie spoke. He that will not beleeue that the swift motion of the hand in fight will deceive the eye, shal starea-

broad

Paradoxes of Defence.

broad with his eyes,& feele himself foundly hurt, before he shall perfectly see how to defend himselfe. So those that trust to their fight, the excellecy of a good eye, their great cunning, & perfect wards of the daggers, that they can better see to ward then with a buckler, shall euer be deceived. And whe they be wounded, they say the Aget was a litle too quicke for them; sometimes they say they bare their dagger a litle too low: fometimes they are thrust vnder the dagger, then they say, they bare it a litle too high : sometimes a thrust being strongly made, they being foundly paid therewith, say, they were a litle too flow,& fometimes they be foundly paid with a thrust,& they thinke they were a litle too quick. So they that practife or thinke to be cunning in the dagger ward, are all The Dagger it an the dayes of their lives learning, and are never taught.

imperfe& ward.

That the Sword and Buckler hath the vantage against the Sword and Target.

He Sword & Target together hath but two 25 fights; that is, the variable fight, & the close fight, for the close fight, the nuber of his feet are too many to take against any ma of skill having the Sword & buckler,& for the variable fight although not so many in number, yet too many to win the place with his foot to strike or thrust home. The sword & buckler-man can out of his variable, ope & gardat fight, come brauely off & on, false and double, strike & thrust home, & make a true croffe vpon euery occasion at his pleasure: if the Sword & Target ma will flie to his gardat fight, the bredth of his Target will not fuffer it, if to his open fight, the hath the Sword & Buckler man in effect the fword and Buckler to the fingle, for in that fight by reason of the bredth, the target can do litle good or none at all.

The short Staffe.

Ow for the vantage of the short Staffe a-Special gainst the Sword and Buckler, Sword & Target, two hand sword, single Sword. Sword and Dagger, or Rapier and Poiniard, there is no great question to be made in anie of these weapons: whensoeuer anie blow or thrust shall be strongly made with the staffe, they are euer in false place, in the cariage of the wards, for if at any of these sixe weapons he carie his ward high & strog for his head, as of necessitie he must carie it verie high. otherwise it will be too weake to defend a blow being strongly made at the head, then will his space be too wide, in due time to breake the thrust from his bodie. Againe, if he carie his ward lower, thereby to be in equall space for readinesse to breake both blow & thrust. then in that place his ward is too low, and too weake to defend the blow of the staffe: for the blow being strongly made at the head vpon that ward, will beate downe the ward and his head together, and put him in great danger of his life. And here is to be noted, that if he fight well, the staffe-man neuer striketh but at the head, and thrusteth presently under at the body: and if a blow be first made, a thrust followeth; & if a thrust be first made, a blow followeth; and in doing of any of them, the one breedeth the other: fo that howfoeuer anie of these fixe weapons shall carie his ward strongly to defend the first, he shall be too farre in space to defend the second, whether it be blow or thrust.

Yet againe for the short staffe: the short staffe hath the vantage against the Battel-axe, blacke-bill, or Halbard. Paradoxes of Defence.

bard: the short staffe hath the vantage, by reason of the nimblenesse and length: he will strike and thrust freely, and in better and fwifter time then can the Battel-axe, Blacke-bill, or Halbard: and by reason of his judgement, distance and time, fight safe. And this resolue vpon, the short staffe is the best weapon against all maner of weapons, the Forrest bill excepted.

Also the short staffe hath advantage against two The fort staffe Swords and Daggers, or two Rapiers, Poiniards and or half Pike hath Gantlets, the reasons and causes before are for the most reinfi two sword part set downe already, the which being well conside- and dagger men, red, you shall plainely see, that whensoeuer anie one of or two Rapiers. the Sword & Dagger men, or Rapier and Poiniard men Gantlets.

shall breake his distance, or suffer the Staffe-man to breake his, that man which did first breake his distace, or fuffer the distance to be won against him, is presently in danger of death. And this canot in reason be denied, because the distance appertaining to the Staffe-man, either to keepe or breake, standeth vpon the mouing of one large space alwayes at the most, both for his offence or fafety. The other two in the breach of their distance to offend the Staffe-man, have alwayes foure paces at the least therin they fall too great in number with their feet, and too short in distance to offend the Staffeman. Now there resteth no more to be spoken of, but how the Staffe-man shall behave himselfe to keepe that distance, that one of the Sword & Dagger men get not behind him, while the other shal busic him before: to do that is very easie, by reason of the smal nuber of his seet, for by a verie small turning of his feet, as it were in the Center point of a wheele, the other two to keepe their distance, are driven to runne twentie foote for one, as it were vpon the vttermost part or circle of the wheele: all this while the Staffe-man is verie well. Then it commeth thus to passe, whether they both labour to get behind him, or one keepe directly before him whileft the other get behind him, yet before that be brought to passe, they shal either be both before him or iust against both fides of him: at which time soeuer the Staffe-man finding either of them within distance, he presently in making of his play, flayeth with blow or thrust one of the, or at the least putteth him in great danger of his life. If the Staffe-man take his time, when they are both before him, that is to fay, before they come to the half ring, iust against both sides of the Staffe-man, then he that is nearest within distance is slain by blow or thrust, or put in great danger of his life. But if the Sword and Dagger men do keepe their distance vntill they come to the iust halfe ring right against the sides of the Staffeman, and then breake distance, that man that first breaketh distance is slaine with blow or thrust, or fore hurt, and in great danger of death: and the Staffe-man in making that play at that instant, must turne with one large pace, the which he may easily do, before the other can get neare enough to offend him, by reason that he hath to make with his feet but one large pace, but the other hath at the least three paces. But if the Sword and Dagger-men will in the time that they be before him, keep their distance in the time of their being vpon the middle part of the outfide of the circle, right against both fides of him, & will labor with all heed & diligence to be both or one of the behind him, that troubleth the Staffe-man nothing at all, for in that very time, when he findeth them past the middle part of the circle, he prefently fently turneth, by the which he shall naturally set himselfe as it were in a triangle, and both the sword and dagger-men, shall thereby stand both before him in true distance of three paces, from offending of him at the least, as at the first they did. And take this for a true ground, there is no man able to ward a found blow with the Sword and Dagger, nor Rapier, Poinyard, and Gantlet, being strongly made at the head, with the Staffe, and run in withall, the force of both handes is fuch, being in his full motion and course, that although the other do carie his ward high and strong with both handes, yet his feete being mouing from the ground, the great force of the blow will strike him with his ward, and all downe flat to ground. But if he stand fast with his feete, he may with both weapons together, strongly defend his head from the blow, but then you are fufficiently instructed, the thrust being presently made, after the blow full at the bodie, it is impossible in due time to breake it, by reason of the largenesse of his space.

The short Staffe bath the vantage against the long staffe, and Morris Pike, and the Forrest bill against all maner of weapons.

He reasons are these. The short Staffe 27 hath the vantage of the long Staffe and Morris Pike in his strength & narrownes of space in his foure wardes of defence. And the Forrest bill hath the vantage of all maner of weapons in his strength and narrownes of space in his eight wardes of defence: and the rather because the Bill hath two wardes for one against the Staffe or Morris Pike, that is to fay, foure with the Staffe, and foure with the head, and is more offensive then is the Staffe or Morris Pike: yet a questio may be made by the vnskilfull, concerning the fight between the long Staffe and the short, in this sort: Why should not the long Staffe have advantage against short Staffe, since that the long Staffe-man, being at libertie with his handes, may make his long Staffe both long and short for his best aduantage, when he shall thinke it good, and therefore when he shall find himselfe ouermatched in the length of his Staffe, by the strength of the short Staffe, and narrownesse of space in his source wardes of desence, he can presently by drawing backe of his Staffe in his handes, make his Staffe as short as the others, and so be readie to fight with him at his owne length. To this I answere, that when the long Staffe-man is driven there to lye, the length of his Staffe that will lye behind him, will hinder him to strike, thrust, ward, or goe backe in due time. Neither can he turne the contrarie end of his Staffe to keepe out the short Staffe man from the Close, nor safely to defend himselfe at his comming in.

A queftion.

George Siluer his

Answere.

Againe of the vantages of weapons.

Ake this for a general rule, all long Staues, Morris Pikes, Forrest bils, Iauelins, or such like long weapons, of what fort soeuer, being aboue the true lengthes, the shortest haue the aduantage, because they can crosse and vncrosse in shorter time then can the longer: and all maner of short weapons to be vsed with both handes, as staues, and such like, being vnder the perfect lengthes,
the

the longest haue the advantage, and all maner of weanons to be vsed with one hand, that are aboue the perfect length of the fingle Sword, the shortest have the vantage, and all maner of weapons vnder the iust length of the short Sword, as Fauchions, Skaines, or Hangers, Woodkniues, Daggers, and such like short weapons of imperfect lengthes, the longest have the advantage, because the fight of these weapons consist within the halfe or quarter Sword, wherein by the swift motions of their handes, their eyes are deceived, and in those weapons, commonly for their handes lieth no defence. And if two shall fight with staues or Swordes, or what weanons focuer, the one of them having his weapon longer then the perfect length, and the other his weapon shorter then the perfect length, he that hath the longest hath the vantage, because the shortest can make no true Crosse in true time. The short Staffe or halfe Pike, Forrest bill, Partisan, or Gleue, or such like weapons of perfect length, to be vsed with both handes, haue the aduantage against two Swordes and Daggers, or two Rapiers, Poiniardes, and Gantlets, and against all other weapons whatsoeuer, the Forrest bill excepted.

Againe for the short Staffe or halfe Pike.

He short Staffe is most commonly the 29 best weapon of all other, although other weapons may be more offensiue, and especially against manie weapons together, by reason of his nimblenesse and swift motions, and is not much inferiour to the Forrest bill, although the Forrest bill be more offensiue, and hath more wardes, because the Staffe is verie vncertaine, but the Bill is a more certaine marke, by reason of the breadth of the head, wherby as the Bill hath advantage in his wardes in the head. so therefore hath the Staffe the like defence, or rather more, to play vpon the head of the Bill, not onely to make a perfect good ward, but thereby, the rather to cast the Bill out of the right line, whereby the Staffe-man may thrust safe, and endanger the Bill-man: and the rather because therein he is the first mouer, wherin there is great vantage, both in time and force. And if the Bilman be not very skilfull (all vantages and disaduantages of both fides confidered,) the short Staffe will proue the better weapon. Lastly note this, that long Staues, Morris Pikes, and fuch like weapons of imperfect lengthes. being to be vsed with both hands, notwithstanding their imperfect lengthes, are perfect weapons to be vsed, the one against the other, and their fightes therein perfect. because in drawing of them backe betwixt their handes, their motions are fwifter backewardes, then is the time of the Agents feet forwardes, by the which all their lost times are redeemed: therefore these weapons in their fightes, the one against the other are perfect. And these weapons in the night are the best weapons of all other, and have great advantage against the forrest Bill, short Staffe, or anie maner of short weapons whatsoeuer: for these causes, they boldly make home their fightes, and if neede be against desperate men, that will venture themselues to run in, they redeeme their lost times. But the other with shorter weapons for lacke of light, can make no true defence. Thus endeth the vantages of weapons.

G 2

44 George Siluer his

Questions and answers betweene the Scholler and the Maister, of the vantages and disadvantages betweene a tall man, and a man of meane stature, baving both the perfect knowledge in their weapons.

Scholler.

Ho hath the advantage in fight, of a tall 30 man, or a man of meane stature?

Maister.

The tall man hath the vantage, for these causes: his reach being longer, and weapon vnto his stature accordingly, he hath thereby a Tall men beautho shorter course with his seet to win the true place, wher- vantage against in by the swift motion of his hand, he may strike or men of meane thrust home: in the which time a man of meane stature stature. cannot reach him, & by his large pace, in his true pace in his regression surther, setteth himself out of all danger, & these are the vantages that a tall man hath against anie man of shorter reach then himselfe.

Scholler.

What vantage hath a man of meane stature against a tall man?

Maister.

He hath none: because the true times in fight, and actions accordingly, are to be observed and done, as well by a tall man, as by a man of meane stature.

Scholler.

Why then if this be true, that tall men have the vantage against me of meane stature, it shold seeme in fight

Nete this.

there is no perfection, other then this, when men of like stature, reach, & length of weapon, shall fight together

the which will feldome or neuer happen, but either in the length of their weapons, statures or reaches (if their fwords should be of iust length) some difference most commonly there will be in their reaches.

Maister.

Yes verily, the tall man hath still the vantage, and yet the fight is perfect, although the men that shall happen to fight, shall happe to be vnequall in their statures, reaches, or lengths of their weapons.

Scholler.

That can I hardly believe, vnlesse you can tell me by Art how to avoid or fafely defend my felfe, being but a man of meane stature, against a tall man.

Maister.

I will tell you: there belongeth vnto this Art of defence onely to be vsed with the feet, progression, regresfion, trauerling, and treading of grounds: in any of these you playing the part of the Patient, or Patient Agent, your feete are swifter in their motions then are the Agents, because his weight and number of his feet in his comming to win the true place to strike or thrust home, are greater then yours, and therefore the true time is yours to avoid him, or fafely to defend your felfe: fo the Art is still true, and the tall man hath still the vantage.

Scholler.

Yet I am not fully satisfied herein, because you tell me still that the tall man hath the vantage, and notwithstanding you say the Art is true, wherein then hath the tall man the vantage, when by your Art you can defend your selfe against him.

Maister.

Paradoxes of Defence. Maister.

I will satisfie you therein thus. The tall man hath the vantage, he can maintaine his fight, both by nature and Art, with more ease then can the man of meane stature, because the man of meane stature hath therehy a further course with his feete to passe to the place, wherein he may strike or thrust home, and in winning of that place, is driven by Art to come garded vnder his wards to defend himselfe, because in the time of his comming, the tall man may both naturally or artificially strike or thrust home, in the which time, if the ma of meane stature should faile in the least iote of his Art. he should be in great daunger of death or hurt. But the tall man can naturally and fafely come to the true place open, without any artificiall wards at all, and therein also endanger the other, or drive him still to traverse his ground, with all the artificiall skill that he hath to de- Four innincible fend himselfe; and all this the tall man doth by reason fift in a tall man of his length of weapon, large pace, short course, and against a man long reach, with great sasetie, pleasure and ease. And for Long reach. those causes the tall man hath still the vantage of men of Short course. meane stature, and yet notwithading the noble Science Length of weaps. of Defence most perfect and good.

Of the long fingle Rapier fight betweene valiant men, hauing both skill, he that is the best wrastler, or if neither of them can wrastle, the strongest man most commonly killeth the other, or lea-ueth him at his mercie. MHen two valiant men of skill at fingle Ra- 21 pier do fight, one or both of them most comonly standing vpon their strength or skill Log in wraftling, will presently seeke to run into

Of the Rapier and Poiniard-fight betwixt valiant men, having both skill.

F two valiant men do fight at Rapier and Poiniard hauing both skill, one or both of them will presently presse hard to winne the place, wherein in his iudgement he may thrust home. If both he of one mind, the time is doubled in winning the same: whereby it commeth to passe, that then he that first thrusteth, endangereth, killeth or hurteth the other: and if they both thrust together, as they may do by the equall time of their feet, then they are most commonly both staine, or both hurt. And this is well knowne vnto all men of skill, that the place being once gotten, there is neither judgement, space, pace, nor time, either by wards with their Rapier blades, or by breaking with their Poiniards, or flying backe, that can preserve or defend them. But if but one of them will feeke to win by passage, hard pressing, or otherwise the place, wherin in his judgement he may thrust home, it is impossible for the other to denie him the same, because the length of the Rapiers winneth him the croffe; the croffe being taken, the place is had; the place being had, he that first thrusteth, first speedeth: if both thrust together, they are both in danger: the presently followeth (vnlesse it please God otherwise to haue it) the stabs with their daggers, wherein there lieth no defence.

Of the long Rapier & Poiniard-fight betweene two valiant men, the one having skil, the other none: that he that hath no skill hath the vantage.

Hen two valiant men shal fight with log 33 Rapiers and Poiniards, the one having skill, and the other none, he that hath no skill most commoly proueth himself the better ma, for these causes or reasons following. First the skilfull man as knowing the other to haue no skill, or finding it to be so by his shape or maner of comming towardes him, will presently yeeld to take the advantage of his comming, or else with all speed put himselfe into his short ward, to be readie at his comming to make out a strong Stocata (as the Italians call it:) the other knowing his imperfection in fight, affureth himselfe there can be no great good for him to stand long out at the point, presently redoubleth or reuiueth his spirits with perfect resolution, to make fhort worke, couragiously with some offensive action, fuch as nature shall best yeeld vnto him, slieth in with all force and agilitie: the skilfull man standeth watching to take such advantages as his schoolemaister hath taught him, in the which time, manie times it falleth out, he is taught a new time, euen by an vnskilfull man that neuer fought before, is fore hurt or flaine: and if it happen they both misse in their offensive actions, then by reafon thereof, and of the imperfect length of their Rapiers, they come to stabbing with their Poiniards, wherin there lyeth no defence, because distance being broken, judgement faileth, time is lost, and their eies (by the fwift motions of their handes) are deceived.

Of the long fingle Rapier, or Rapier and Poiniard-fight betweene two vnskilfull men being valiant.

Hen two vnskilfull men (being valiant) fhall fight with long fingle Rapiers, there is lesse danger in that kind of fight, by reafon of their distance in conuenient length, waight, and vnweildinesse, then is with short Rapiers:
whereby it commeth to passe, that what hurt shall happen to be done, if anie with the edge or point of their Rapiers

Rapiers is done in a moment, and presently will grapple and wrastle together, wherin most commonly the strongest or best Wrastler ouercommeth, and the like sight falleth out betweene them, at the long Rapier and Poiniard, but much more deadly, because in stead of Close and Wrastling, they fall most commonly to stabbing with their Poiniardes.

Of the imperfection and insufficiencie of Rapiers in generall, of what length soeuer they be.

F two fight with long Rapiers, vpon euerie jon breaking Crosse made within the halfe Rapier, if they with their Daghaue Poiniardes, they most commonly stabbe gers, be that first each other, which cannot be avoided, because the Ra-place, and thrupiers being long, the Croffe cannot be vndone of either fleth home, burfide, without going backe with their feete, the which lacke of the circulikewise in due time cannot be done, because the hand ferencesif both is more swifter then the feete, and the feete more swifter thrust together, in their course forwardes then backwardes, neither can sped, because the Crosse be preuented, because the point of necessitie their spaces of lyeth too farre off in his offence, or else within compasse wide to answere of the true time of the hand and bodie, by reason of his the time of the imperfect length: and so by the like reasons, if two fight band, and by the with long fingle Rapiers, vpon euerie Crosse made thereof, the eye therewith, within the halfe Rapier, the Close cannot be in that diffiance avoided, wherby it commeth to passe most common- is by the same dely, that the strongest man or best Wrastler ouercom- The feete in meth. Now if two do fight with short Rapiers, or Ra-their course, but piers of convenient length, such Rapiers be inconveni- metien, alwaies ent and insufficient also for lacke of an hilt to defend the note for the ahand and head from the blow; for no eie (in making a errours.

Ħэ

perfect ward for the head, to defend a blow, can difcerne to take the same within three or source inches. wherby it may as well and as often fall upon the hand, as vpon the blade of the Rapier. Againe, the hilt as well ferueth to defend the head as the hand, and is a more fure and strong ward, then is the blade of the Rapier. And further, vnderstand this for truth, that in gardant and open fight, the hand without an hilt lieth open to most blowes that shalbe stroken by the Agent, out of the gardant or open fight, because in the true carriage of the gardant fight, the hand must lie aboue the head, in such straightnes and narrownes of space, that which way soeuer the Agent shall strike or thrust at the head, face, or bodie, the remouing of two or foure inches shall saue all. And now somewhat more for the shortnesse or conuenient length of Rapiers.

Rapiers having no hilts to defend the head, the Rapier-man is driven of necessitie to lie at the variable fight or low ward, and being there he can neither defend in due time, head, face, nor bodie from the blowes or thrustes of him, that shall fight out of the gardant or open fight, but is continually in great danger of the Agent, for these causes following. First, because his space is too wide to defend his head from blow or thrust. Secondly his Pace standing vpon that fight, wilbe of necessitie too great or too narrow:if too narrow, too weak: if too large, his weight and number of his feet, are too great to endanger him, that is vpon his gardant or open fight.

Of

Of the imperfection and insufficiencie of the fight of the fingle Rapier, Rapier and Poiniard, Rapier and Buckler, Rapier and Cloke, and Rapier and Glove of maile.

He Rapier fight, whether it be fingle or ac- 36 copanied with Poiniard, Buckler, cloke, or gloue of male, is still by reason of the insufficiencie or impersection of the Rapier, an imperfect fight: vnperfect instruments can make no perfect mulicke, neither can vnperfect weapons make perfect fight: let the men that handle them have all the knowledge that may be in all maner of weapons, yea the full height, or perfection, and true habite by his great labour and industry, euen as it were naturally effected in him, yet if the weapons that they shall fight withall be imperfect or infufficient to performe whatfocuer appertaineth vnto true fight, as concerning the perfection of their fafetie, it availeth them nothing. What shall we then say for the Rapier? Is the Rapier an imperfect or infufficient weapon to perfourme whatsoeuer appertaineth vnto the true fight? Yea: Wherefore? Because vnto the true fight there appertaineth foure fights, Gardant fight, Open fight, Variable fight, and Close fight: without all foure of these fights it is impossible to fight safe: but the Rapier for lacke of an hilt is an unperfect weapon, and therefore insufficient to fight safe vpon these source fights, the reasons are alreadie set downe in the Paradoxe before, but it is inferred to loose the benefit of two of the best fights, gardant and open fight, and to slie from the and trust only vnto variable fight, and close fight. Now having proued through the imperfection or infufficiencie of the Rapier, the imperfection of the Rapier fight. it remaineth that I speake of the rest of the weapons, or instruments appertaining vnto Rapier fight.

The Rapier and Poiniard fight, the Rapier & Buckler fight, the Rapier and cloke fight, & the Rapier & gloue of male fight: all these fights by reason of the impersection of the Rapier, and Rapier fight, are all also imperfect fights: and for proofe of the vncertaintie and impossibilities of safetie in any of these fights, thus it standeth. These fights depend altogether vpo variable fight and close fight: in anie of these fights it is impossible in true space of Offence to keepe the blades of their Rapiers from croffing, or fro breaking with the Poiniards, buckler, cloke, or breaking or catching with the gloue of male; because in anie of these two fights, the Agent hath still in true space the blade of the Patients Rapier to worke vpon. These things by letters cannot be made more plaine, neither is it vnknowne to the skilfull, or in fight by anie meanes to be avoided, the weapon being too farre in true space to be wrought vpon, the place cannot be denied, do the patient Agent what he can for his life to the contrarie, either by blowes, thrusts, falfing, or doubling of thrusts, going backe, indirections, or turnings of the body, or what elfe foeuer may in the highest touch of wit or strength, or agilitie of bodie be deuised or done, to keepe out the Agent: but still the Agent by narrownesse of space bringeth himself by strog gard to the place, where being brought, it is as impossible to fight safe, as it is for two desperate men set toge-

Paradoxes of Defence. ther being both blind; because in the true place (wonne in Rapier or variable fight) their eyes by the swift motions of their hands are deceived, the croffes in that fight are false, their distance, judgements and times are lost, either to offend in safetie, or safely to defend themselues: and these reasons, rules, or grounds of the seates of armes are infallible and inuincible.

Now, ô you Italian teachers of Defence, where are vour Stocatas, Imbrocatas, Mandritas, Puntas, & Puynta reuersas, Stramisons, Passatas, Carricados, Amazzas, & Incartatas, & playing with your bodies, remouing with your feet a litle aside, circle wise winding of your bodies, making of three times with your feet together, marking with one eye the motion of the aduersary, with the other eye the aduatage of thrusting? What is become of all these iugling gambalds, Apish deuises, with all the rest of your squint-eyed trickes, when as through your deepe studies, long practises, & apt bodies, both strong & agilious, you have attained to the height of all these things? What then availeth it you, when you shal come to fight for your lives with a man of skill? you shall have neither time, nor place, in due time to performe any one of them, nor gardant nor open fight safely to keep out a man of skill, a man of no skill, or scholler of your owne teaching, from the true place, the place of safetie, the place of vncertaintie or mischiese, the place of wounds or death, but are there inforced to stand in that mischieuous, vncertaine, dangerous, and most deadly place, as two men having lost in part their chiefest sences, most furiously with their rapiers or poiniards, wounding or flaying each other.

Thus endeth the imperfect fights of the rapier with all maner of weapons or instruments thereto ap pertain ning, with their imperfections, through the true grouds and rules of the Art of armes, truly displayed & brought to light.

All laud be vnto the Almighty God.

That the reasons wsed by the Italian Fencers in commending the vse of the Rapier and Poiniard, because it maketh peace, maketh against themselues.

37 Thath bin commonly held, that fince the

There are few Saine now then were then.

Italians haue taught the Rapier fight, by reason of the dangerous vse theros, it hath bred great civilitie amongst our English nation, they will not now give the lye, nor frages, but more with such foule speeches abuse themselves, therefore valiant Gentleme there are fewer frayes in these times then were wont to be:it cannot be denied but this is true, that we are more circumspect of our words, and more fearefull to fight. then heretofore we have bene. But whereof commeth it? Is it from this, that the Rapier maketh peace in our minds; or from hence, that it is not so sufficient defence for our bodies in our fight? He that will fight when he is armed, will not fight when he is naked: is it therefore good to go naked to keepe peace? he that would fight with his Sword and Buckler, or Sword and Dagger, being weapons of true defence, will not fight with his Rapier and Poiniard, wherein no true defence or fight is perfect: are these insufficiet weapos therfore the better, because not being sufficiet to defedvs in fight, they force vs vnto peace? What else is it, but to say, it is good for fubiccts

Paradoxes of Defence.

subjects to be poore, that they may not go to law: or to lacke munition, that they may not fight, nor go to the warres: and to conclude, what more followeth through the imperfect workes of these Italian peacemakers? They have made many a strong man in his fight weake, many a valiant man fearefull, manie a worthie man trusting to their imperfect fight, hath bene flaine, and manie of our desperate boyes and young youthes, to become in that Rapier-fight, as good men as England yeeldeth, and the tallest men in this land, in that fight as verie boyes as they and no better. This good have the Italian teachers of Offence done vs, they have transformed our boyes into men, and our men into boyes, our strong men into weakenesse, our valiant men doubtfull, and manie worthic men resoluing themselves vpon their false resolutions, have most wilfully in the field, with their Rapiers ended their lives. And lastly, have left to remaine amongst vs after their deathes, these inconveniences behind them, false Fence-bookes, impersect weapons, false fightes, and euill customes, whereby for lacke of vse and practife in perfect weapons and true fight, we are difabled for the service of our Prince, defence of our countrey, and fafetie of our lives in private fight.

That the short Sword hath the advantage against the long Sword or long Rapier.

Hereas for the most part opinions are 38 Spenerally holden, that the long Sword, or long Rapier, hath the vantage in fight against the short Sword, which the Italian teachers of Desence, by their salse de-

Paradoxes of Defence.

Thefe reasons are vied by the Italians.

monstratios have brought vs to beleeve. I have thought good that the truth may appeare which hath the vantage, to adde my helpe vnto the reasons they vse in their owne behalfe, for that yet I could neuer heare them make a found reason for the same. These are the reasons. First with my long Rapier, I will put my selfe into my gard or Stocata, holding my hilt backe by the outfide of my right thigh, keeping in short the point of my Rapier. so as he that hath the short Sword, shall not be able to reach the point of my Rapier, to make his ward or Crosse with his Dagger, Buckler, Sword, or Cloke, without stepping in of his foote, the which time is too long to answere the time of the hand, by reason of my distance. I can there stand safe without danger of blow or thrust, playing the Patients part: if you strike or thrust you do it too short, by reason of my distance: if you seek to come nearer, you must do it with the time of your foote, in the which time I may fafely thrust home: if in that distance you breake it not, you are slaine: if you do breake it, yet you do me no harme, by reason of my distance, and I may stand fast and thrust againe, or slie backe at my pleasure: so haue you put your selfe in danger of your life, and having hardly escaped, are driven againe to begin a new bought, as at the first you did. Againe, if I please, I can be the oppressour, keeping the fame gard, and my point in short as I did before, and pressing strongly by putting in by litle and litle of my feete, vntill the place with my foote be gotten, wherein (in my judgement) I may thrust home, the which I may boldly and safely do, without respect of anie ward at all, by reason of my distance, in which time of my comming he must strike, thrust, ward, or go backe: if he go backe, it is a great difgrace: if he strike or thrust, it is too short: if he stand to defend, the place being alreadie gotten, where I may thrust home, the thrust being verie quicke & strongly made, such is the force and swiftnesse thereof, that it is impossible by nature or art, for anie man to breake one thrust of an hundred. These reasons in my opinion may suffice to confirme the wise, that there is no question to be made, but that the long Rapier hath the advantage against the short Sword.

Sir you have pretily handled your discourse, concer-the Italians reaning the vantages of the long Rapier against the short fons. Sword, especially at the first shew, and according to common sence, but for the substance and truth of the true fight, you have faid nothing, because for the performance of anie of your allegations, you have neither true Pace, Place, Time, nor Space: these are the reafons. Your Pace of necessitie must be too large, because otherwise you cannot keepe safe the point of your long Rapier, from the Crosse of the short Sword, vnlesse you will with a narrow Pace keepe backe your hilt so farre, that the space of your offence wilbe too large or too long in distance, and your bodie vnapt to moue and to thrust both strong and quicke in due time, nor aptly to keepe your distance, to win the place with your feete, to thrust home. So now you may plainely see, if you have skill in the art or science of Desence, that to performe anie thing which you have alleadged, you have neither true Pace, Place, time nor Space. But if you will stand vpon the largenesse of your Pace, to keepe backe or faue the point of your long Rapier from the ward or Crosse of the short Sword, or vpon your Passatos, in all these you have great disaduantages: and these are my reasons: Your number will be too great. as thus: whenfoeuer you meane out of your large pace to thrust home, you must of necessitie make source times with your feet, and one with your hand, or two times with your feet, and one with your hand at the least: and whenfoeuer you make any of your passages, the nuber of your feet are greater then the greatest of any of these times done out of the large pace: but the patient with his fhort fword, to auoyd you, or disappoint you of your thrust, hath but one time with his foot, at or before the which time, as he in his judgemet shall find you in your motion, hath by the flow and great number of your motions or times, sufficient time safely out of all danger to make himselse readie to take his crosse with his short fword. Now Sir, whether you thrust or not thrust, whether you play the part of an Agent, or Patient, it helpeth you nothing, for he that hath the short sword hath foure times or motions against the long Rapier, namely, bent, spent, lying spent, and drawing backe, in all maner of fights these are to be observed both by the Patient and Agent. Now note, he that hath the long Rapier must of necessitie play vpon one of these source motions, or be Patient, which soeuer he shall do, he is still in great danger of the crosse of the short sword, because if he be Agent, his number is too great, he falleth into one of the foure motions, the Patient with his short sword, having but the time of the hand, or had & foot, safely vpon these actions or times taketh his crosse with the short Sword: that being done, he prefently vncrosseth and striketh or thrusteth at his pleasure him that hath the long Rapier, in the head, face, or bodie. Now here is againe to be noted, that when the crosse is made, if he that hath the long Rapier stand fast, he is wounded presently in the vncrossing of the short sword, if he step or leape backe to saue himselfe, yet the time of the hand being swifter then the time of the foot, ouertaketh him, with blow or thrust in the arme, hand, head, face and bodie. Now if he that hath the long Rapier will be patient & make no play, but lie still watching to make his thrust or Stocata iust in the comming or mouing of the Agents feete with his short sword, then he hath as great disaduantage as he had when he was Patient, because the the Agent with his short Sword hath but hand and foot to make his crosse: which is most safely to be done in that time, which we call Bent, and is as impossible for the Rapier-man to preuent, as it is for an vnskilfull to strike or thrust iust together with a man of skill. Then thus I conclude, that he that fighteth with a long Rapier, against him that fighteth with a short Sword, can do nothing in due time to defend himselfe, or hurt the other, but is still in daunger of his life, or at the mercie of him that hath the short Sword, or else hath no safe way to helpe himselse, but onely Cobs Cobs Transerse. Trauerse. This Cob was a great quareller, and did delight in great brauerie to giue foule words to his betters, and would not refuse to go into the field to fight with any man, and when he came into the field, would draw his Sword to fight, for he was sure by the cunning of his Trauerse, not to be hurt by anie man: for at anie time finding himselfe ouermatched would suddenly turne his backe and runne away with fuch fwift-

nesse, that it was thought a good horse would scarce take him. And this when I was a young man, was ve-rie much spoken of by many Gentlemen of the Innes of 62 George Siluer his the Court, and was called Cobs Trauerse and those that had seene anie go backe too fast in his sight, would say, he did tread Cobs Trauerse.

George Siluer his militarie riddle, truly set downe betweene the Perfection and Imperfection of sight: containing the handling of the source sights: wherein true consistet be the whole summe and sull perfection of the true sight, with all maner of weapons, with an invicible conclusion.

Ardant fight stayeth, putteth backe, or beateth gardant fight.

Open fight stayeth, putteth backe, or beateth open fight.

Variable fight answereth variable fight in the first distance, and not otherwise, except it be with the perfect length against the imperfect.

Close fight is beaten by gardant fight.

Variable close & gardant fight, beateth gardant fight, open fight, variable fight, and close fight.

Gardant fight in the imperfection of the Agent or Patient, winneth the halfe fword, and preuenteth the close, and whosoeuer first ventureth the close, looseth it, and is in great danger of death, and not possible to escape or get out againe without great hurt.

There attendeth most diligently vpon these source fights source offensive actions, which we call certaine, vncertaine, sirst, before, iust, and asterwards: they are to be performed through iudgement, time, measure, number and waight, by which all maner of blowes, thrusts,

Paradoxes of Defence.

63

thrusts, falses, doubles, or slips, are preuented, or most safely defended. And thus endeth my riddle.

Now followeth the conclusion, that whosoeuer shall thinke or find himselfe in his fight too weake for the Agent, or Patient Agent, and therefore, or by reason of his drunkennesse, or vnreasonable desperatenesse shall prese within the halfe Sword, or deserately runne in of purpose to giue hurt, or at least for taking of one hurt, to giue another, shall most assuredly be in great daunger of death or wounds, and the other shall still be safe and go free.

Veritas vincit.

A BRIEFE NOTE OF THREE ITA. lian Teachers of Offence.

but to sbew their and insufficiency their profession living: that from henceforth this briefe note may beware of had I wift.

I write not this to the dead. Here were three Italian Teachers of Ofdifference the dead. First was Signior a fence in my time. The first was Signior impudet boldnesse Sall Rocko: the second was Ieronimo, that was Signior Rocko his boy, that taught Gentlemen in the Blacke-Fryers, as Vsher for when they were his maister in steed of a man. The third was Vincentio. This Signior Rocko came into England about some thirtie yeares past: he taught the Noblemen & Gentlemen be aremembrance of the Court; he caused some of them to weare leaden foales in their shoes, the better to bring them to nimblenesse of feet in their fight. He disbursed a great summe of mony for the lease of a faire house in Warwicke lane. which he called his Colledge, for he thought it great difgrace for him to keepe a Fence-schoole, he being then thought to be the onely famous Maister of the Art of armes in the whole world. He caused to be fairely drawne and fet round about his Schoole all the Noblemens and Gentlemens armes that were his Schollers, and hanging right vnder their armes their Rapiers, daggers, gloues of male and gantlets. Also, he had benches and stooles, the roome being verie large, for Gentleme to fit round about his Schoole to behold his teaching. He taught none commonly under twentie, fortie, fifty, or an hundred pounds. And because all things should be verie necessary for the Nobleme & gentleme, he had in his schoole a large square table, with a greene carnet, done round with a verie brode rich fringe of gold, alwaies standing vpon it a verie faire Standish couered with Crimson Veluet, with inke, pens, pin-dust, and fealing waxe, and quiers of verie excellent fine paper oilded, readie for the Noblemen & Gentlemen (vpon occasion) to write their letters, being then desirous to follow their fight, to fend their men to dispatch their husinesse. And to know how the time passed, he had in one corner of his schoole a Clocke, with a verie faire large Diall, he had within that schoole, a roome the which was called his privile schoole, with manie weapons therein, where he did teach his schollers his secret fight, after he had perfectly taught them their rules. He was verie much beloued in the Court.

There was one Austen Bagger, a verie tall gentleman of his handes, not standing much vpon his skill, but carying the valiant hart of an Englishman, upon a time being merrie amongst his friendes, said he would go fight with Signior Rocco, presently went to Signior Rocco his house in the Blackefriers, and called to him in this maner: Signior Rocco, thou that art thought to be the onely cunning man in the world with thy weapon, thou that takest vpon thee to hit anie Englishman with a thrust vpon anie button, thou that takest vpon thee to come ouer the seas, to teach the valiant Noblemen and Gentlemen of England to fight, thou cowardly fellow come out of thy house if thou dare for thy life, I am come to fight with thee. Signior Rocco looking out at a window, perceiuing him in the street to stand readie with his Sword and Buckler, with his two hand Sword drawne, with all speed ran into the street, and manfully let flie at Austen Bagger, who most brauely desended himselse, and presently closed with him, and stroke vp his heeles, and cut him ouer the breech, and trode vpon him, and most grieuously hurt him vnder his seet: yet in the end Austen of his good nature gaue him his life, and there lest hin. This was the first and last fight that euer Signior Rocco made, sauing once at Queene Hith he drew his Rapier vpon a waterman, where he was throughly beaten with Oares and Stretchers, but the oddes of their weapons were as great against his Rapier, as was his two hand Sword against Austen Baggers Sword and Buckler, therefore for that fray he was to be excused.

Then came in Vincentio and Ieronimo, they taught Rapier-fight at the Court, at London, and in the countrey, by the space of seauen or eight yeares or thereabouts. These two Italian Fencers, especially Vincentio, faid that Englishmen were strong men, but had no cunning, and they would go backe too much in their fight, which was great difgrace vnto them. Vpon these words of difgrace against Englishmen, my brother Toby Silver and my selfe, made challenge against them both, to play with them at the fingle Rapier, Rapier and Dagger, the fingle Dagger, the fingle Sword, the Sword and Target, the Sword and Buckler, & two hand Sword, the Staffe, battell Axe, and Morris Pike, to be played at the Bell Saua ge vpon the Scaffold, where he that went in his fight faster backe then he ought, of Englishman or Italian, shold be in danger to breake his necke off the Scaffold. We caused to that effect, fine or fixe score Bils of challenge to be printed, and fet vp from Southwarke to the Tower, and from thence through London vnto Westminster, minster, we were at the place with all these weapons at the time apointed, within a bow shot of their Fence schoole: many gentlemen of good accompt, caried manie of the bils of chalenge vnto them, telling them that now the Silvers were at the place appointed, with all their weapons, looking for them, and a multitude of people there to behold the fight, faying vnto them, now come and go with vs (you shall take no wrong) or else you are shamed for euer. Do the gentlemen what they could, these gallants would not come to the place of triall. I verily thinke their cowardly feare to answere this chalenge, had vtterly shamed them indeed, had not the maisters of Defence of London, within two or three daies after, bene drinking of bottell Ale hard by Vincentios schoole, in a Hall where the Italians must of necessitie passe through to go to their schoole: and as they were comming by, the maisters of Defence did pray them to drinke with them, but the Italians being verie cowardly, were afraide, and presently drew their Rapiers: there was a pretie wench standing by, that loued the Italians, the ran with ourcrie into the street, helpe, helpe, the Italians are like to be flaine: the people with all speede came running into the house, and with their Cappes and fuch things as they could get, parted the fraie, for the English maisters of Defence, meant nothing lesse then to soile their handes upon these two faint-harted fellowes. The next morning after, all the Court was filled, that the Italian teachers of Fence had beaten all the maisters of Defence in London, who set vpon them in a house together. This wan the Italian Fencers their credit againe, and thereby got much, still continuing their false teaching to the end of their liues.

This Vincentio proued himselfe a stout man not long before he died, that it might be seene in his life time he had bene a gallant, and therefore no maruaile he tooke vpon him to highly to teach Englishmen to fight, and to fet forth bookes of the feates of Armes, V pon a time at Wels in Somersetshire, as he was in great brauerie amongst manie gentlemen of good accompt. with great boldnesse he gaue out speeches, that he had bene thus manie yeares in England, and fince the time of his first comming, there was not yet one Englishman, that could once touch him at the fingle Rapier, or Rapier and Dagger. A valiant gentleman being there amongst the rest, his English hart did rise to heare this proude boaster, secretly sent a messenger to one Bartholomew Bramble a friend of his, a verie tall man both of his hands and person, who kept a schoole of Desence in the towne, the messenger by the way made the maister of Defence acquainted with the mind of the gentleman that sent for him, and of all what Vincentio had said, this maister of Desence presently came, and amongst all the gentlemen with his cap off, prayed maister Vincentio. that he would be pleased to take a quart of wine of him. Vincentio verie scornefully looking vpon him, said vnto him. Wherefore should you give me a quart of wine? Marie Sir, said he, because I heare you are a samous man at your weapon. Then presently said the gentleman that fent for the maister of Defence: Maister Vincentio, I pray you bid him welcome, he is a man of your profession. My profession said Vincential what is my profession. Then said the gentleman, he is a maister of the noble science of Desence. Why said maister Vincetio, God make him a good man. But the maister of Defence wold not thus leave him, but prayed him againe he would be pleased to take a quart of wine of him. The said Vincetio, I haue no need of thy wine. Then faid the maister of Defence: Sir I haue a schoole of Desence in the towne, will it please you to go thither. Thy schoole, said maister Vincentio? what shall I do at thy schoole? play with me (said the maister) at the Rapier and Dagger, if it please you, Play with thee said maister Vincentio? if I play with thee, I will hit thee 1. 2. 3. 4. thrustes in the eie together. Then faid the maister of Defence, if you can do so, it is the better for you, and the worse for me, but surely I can hardly believe that you can hit me: but yet once againe I hartily pray you good Sir, that you will go to my schoole, and play with me. Play with thee said maifler Vincentio (verie scornefully?) by God me scorne to play with thee. With that word scorne, the maister of Defence was verie much moued, and vp with his great English fift, and stroke maister Vincentio such a boxe on the eare that he fell ouer and ouer, his legges iust against a Butterie hatch, whereon stood a great blacke lacke: the maister of Defence searing the worst, against Vincentio his rifing, catcht the blacke Iacke into his hand, being more then halfe full of Beere. Vincentio lustily start vp, laying his hand vpon his Dagger, & with the other hand pointed with his finger, faying, very well: I will cause to lie in the Gaile for this geare, 1.2.3 4. yeares. And well faid the maister of Defence, since you will drinke no wine, will you pledge me in Beere? I drinke to all the cowardly knaues in England, and I thinke thee to be the veriest coward of them all: with that he cast all the Beere vpon him: notwithstanding Vincentio having nothing but his guilt Rapier, and

K 3

Dagger about him, and the other for his defence the blacke Iacke, would not at that time fight it out: butthe next day met with the maister of Defence in the streete. and faid vnto him, you remember how misused a me yesterday, you were to blame, me be an excellent man. me teach you how to thrust two foote further then anie Englishman, but first come you with me: then he brought him to a Mercers shop, and said to the Mercer. let me see of your best silken Pointes, the Mercer did presently shew him some of seauen groates a dozen. then he payeth fourteene groates for two dozen, and faid to the maister of Defence, there is one dozen for you, and here is another for me. This was one of the valiantest Fencers that came from beyond the seas, to teach Englishmen to fight, and this was one of the manliest frayes, that I have hard of, that ever he made in England, wherin he shewed himselfe a farre better man in his life, then in his profession he was, for he professed armes, but in his life a better Christian. He set forth in print a booke for the vse of the Rapier and Dagger, the which he called his practife, I have read it over, and because I finde therein neither true rule for the persect teaching of true fight, not true ground of true fight, neither sence or reason for due proofe thereof. I have thought it friuolous to recite any part therin contained: yet that the truth hereof may appeare, let two me being wel experienced in the Rapier and Dagger fight, choose any of the best branches in the same booke, & make trial with force and agility, without the which the truth betweene the true & false fight cannot be knowne, & they shall find great imperfections therein. And againe, for proofe that there is no truth, neither in his rules, grouds or Rapier-fight, let triall be made in this maner: Set two Proofes against vnskilfull men together at the Rapier and Dagger, be-the Repier fight. ing valiant, and you shall see, that once in two boutes there shall either one or both of them be hurt. Then set two skilfull men together, being valiant at the Rapier and Dagger, and they shall do the like. Then set a skilful Rapier and Dagger-man the best that can be had, and a valiant man having no skill together at Rapier & Dagger, and once in two bouts vpon my credit in all the experience I haue in fight, the vnskilful man, do the other what he can for his life to the contrarie, shall hurt him, and most commonly if it were in continuance of fight, you shall see the vnskilfull man to have the advantage. And if I should chuse a valiant man for service of the Prince, or to take part with me or anie friend of mine in a good quarrell, I would chuse the vnskilfull man, being vnencombred with false fights, because such a man standeth free in his valour with strength and agilitie of bodie, freely taketh the benefit of nature, fighteth most braue, by loofing no oportunitie, either foundly to hurt his enemie, or defend himselfe, but the other standing for his Defence, vpon his cunning Italian wardes, Pointareuersa, the Imbrocata, Stocata, and being fast tyed vnto these false fightes, standeth troubled in his wits, and nature therby racked through the largenesse or false lyings or Spaces, whereby he is in his fight as a man halfe maimed, loofing the oportunity of times & benefit of nature, & whereas before being ignorant of these false Rapier fightes, standing in the free libertie of nature giuen him by god, he was able in the field with his weapo to answere the valiantest man in the world, but now being tied vnto that false fickle vncertaine fight, thereby hath lost in nature his freedome, is now become scarce halfe a man, and euerie boye in that fight is become as good a man as himselfe.

Ieronimo this gallant was valiant, and would fight indeed, and did, as you shall heare. He being in a Coch with a wench that he loued well, there was one Cheefe, a verie tall man, in his fight natural English, for he fought with his Sword and Dagger, and in Rapier-fight had no skill at all. This Cheese having a quarrell to Ieronimo, ouertooke him vpon the way, himselfe being on horsebacke, did call to Ieronimo, and bad him come forth of the Coch or he would fetch him, for he was come to fight with him. Ieronimo presently went forth of the Coch and drew his Rapier and dagger, put himfelf into his best ward or Stocata, which ward was taught by himselfe and Vincentio, and by them best allowed of, to be the best ward to stand upon in fight for life, either to assault the enemie, or stand and watch his comming, which ward it should seeme he ventured his life vpon, but howsoeuer with all the fine Italienated skill Ieronimo had, Cheese with his Sword within two thrustes ran him into the bodie and flue him. Yet the Italian teachers will say, that an Englishma cannot thrust straight with a Sword, because the hilt will not suffer him to put the forefinger ouer the Crosse, nor to put the thumbe vpon the blade, nor to hold the pummell in the hand, whereby we are of necessitie to hold fast the handle in the hand: by reason whereof we are driven to thrust both compasse and short, whereas with the Rapier they can thrust both straight and much further then we can with the Sword, because of the hilt: and these be the reafons they make against the Sword.

BREF INSTRUCTIONS

VPO MY PRADOXES OF DEFENCE for the true handling of all Mann' of weapons together wt the fower grownds & the fower gournors wth gouernours are left out in my pradoxes wtout the knowledge of wth no Man can fight faf

By George Silver Gentleman [1599]

[Sloane MS. No. 376.]

TO THE READER.

Or as much as in my padoxes of Defence I haue admonythed Men to take heede of false teachers of Defence, yet once againe in these my bref instructions I do the lyke, because Divers have wryten books treating of the noble science of Desence, wherin they rather teach offence then Defence, rather shewing men therby how to be flayne than to defend them selues fro the Dange of their enemys, as we may dayly se to the great grief & overthrowe of many brave gentlemen & gallent of o' ever victorious nation of great brytaine, And therfore for the great loue & Care yt I have for the well Doing& pt,vation of my Countrymen, seeing their Dayly ruens & vtter outhrow of Dium gallant gent: & others weh trust only to that Impfyt fyght of yt. Rapior, yease although they Deyly se their owne outhrowes & slaughter therby, yet becaus they are trayned vp therin, they thinke & do fully pswade them selues that ther is no fight so excelent & wher as amongst div's other their oppynyons yt leadeth them to this errous on of yt cheifest is, because ther be so many slayne wt these weapons & therfore they hold them so exelent, but these thinges do cheifly happen, first because their fyght is Imprsyt for that they vie nether the prfyt gronds of true fyght. nether yet the 4 gournors wtout weh no man can fight faf, nether do they vse such other rules weh are required in the right vse of prfyt defence, and also their weapons for ye most pree beinge of an Imprfyt length, must of necessytie make an Imprsyt Desence because they Cannot vie them in due tyme & place, for had these valerous mynded men the right prfection of the true fyght we the short sword, & also of other weapons of prfyt length. I know yt men would com faffer out of the field fro fuch bloddye bankets & that fuch would be their prfections her in, that it would faue many 100 mens lyues. But how should men lerne prfection out of such rules as are nothing els but very Imprsectio it self. And as it is not fyt for a man web desyreth ye clere lyght of the Day to go downe into the bottom of a deepe & Darke Dungion, belyvinge to fynd it there, so is it as Impossyble for men to fynd the prfyt knowledge of this noble science wher as in all their teachings every thinge is attempted & acted vpo Imprfyt rules, for ther is but one truth in all things, web I wish very hartely were taught & practyfed here amongst vs, &yt those Imprsyt & murtherous kynde of false fyghts might be by them abolyshed. Leaue now to quaf & gull any Longer of that fylthy brynysh puddle, seeing yo may now drink of y' fresh & clere sprynge.

L

O that men for their Defence would but geve their mynde to practife the true fyght in deed, & lerne to bere true brytish wards for thire defence, weh yf they had it in prfyt practyfe, I speak it of myne owne knowledge yt those Impriyt Italyon Devyses wt rapyor & ponyard

would

would be clene cast asyde & of no account of al such as blind offections do not lead beyond the bonds of reason. Therfore for the verye zealous & vnfayned loue y' I heare vnto yor high & royal prion my Cuntrymen pyttiing their causes yt so many brave men should be dayly murthered, & spoyled for want of true knowledge of this noble science & not as som Imagyn to be, only ye excelence of ye rapior fyght, & wher as my padoxes of defence is to the most sorte as a darke ryddle in many things ther in fet downe, therfore I have now this second tyme taken som paynes to write these sew breef Instructions ther vppo wher by they may the better attayne to the truth of this scyence & laying open here all such things as was fom thinge Intrycat for them to vnd fland in my p'doxes & therfor yt I haue the ful prfectio & knowledge of the prfyt vse of all mann of weapons, it Doth embolden me here in to wryte for the better Instructio of the Vnskylfull.

And I have added to these my breef Instructions c'taine necesarie admonytions web I wish every man not only to know but also to obs've & follow, Chiefly al such as are defyrous to enter into the right vsage & knowledge of their weapons, & also I have thought it good to Annexe here vnto my p'doxes of Defence because in these my bref Instructions, I have referred ye reader to div's rules ther in fet down.

This haue I wryten for an Infallible truth & a note of remembrance to o' gallant gent: & others of o' brave mynded Nation of great bryttaine, weh bere a mynde to defend them felues & to wyn honour in the feeld by their Actions of armes & syngle Combats.

And know yt I write not this for vaineglorie, but out of An entyre loue y' I owe vnto my natyve Cuntrymen, as on who lamentith their Losses, forrye y' so great an errour should be so Carefully noryshed as a spant in their bosoms to their vtt confusyo, as of long tyme haue byn scene, wher as yf they would but seeke the truth her in they were easyly abolyshed, therfore sollow the truth & sly Ignorance.

76 To the Reader.

And confydr yt learnyng hath no greater enemye than Ignorance, nether can the vnskylfull euer Judge the truth of my arte to them unknowen, beware of rash Judgment & accept my labours as thankfully as I bestow them willingly, censuer me Justly, let no man Dispise my worke herin Causeles, & so I refere my self to the censuer of such as are skylful herin & so I comyt yo to the prtection of the almyghty Jehovah.

you in al loue & fryendly Affectio,

GEORGE SYLUER.

ADMONYTIONS

TO THE GENTLEMEN &

BRAVE GALLANTS OF GREAT BRITAINE AGAINST QUARRELS & BRAULES WRITEN BY GEORGE SILUER.

GENT.

Heras I have declaired in my prdoxes of defence of the false teachinge of the noble scyence of desence vsed here by the Italyon fencers willing men therin to take heed how they trusted ther vnto we suffytient reasons & profs why.

And wher as ther was a booke wryten by Vincentio an Italio teacher whose yll vsinge practises & vnskylfull teaching were such yt it hath cost the lyves of many of or brave gentlemen & gallants, the vnc taintye of whose salle teaching doth yet remayne to ye dayly murthering & ouer throw of many, for he & the rest of them did not teach Desence but offence, as it doth playnlye appere by those yt follow the same Imprsyt syght according to their teaching or instructions by the orders from them precedinge, for be the actors yt follow them neuer so prsyt or skylfull therin one or both of them are eyther

fore hurt or flaine in their Incountrs & fyghts, & yf they alledge y' we vse it not rightly according to y' prsection therof, & therfore cannot defend o' selues, to wch I answer yf themselues had had any prsection therin, & that their teaching had byn a truth, themselues would not have byn beaten & slayne in their fyghts, & vsing of their weapons, as they were.

And therfore I proue wher a man by their teaching can not be faf in his defence following their owne groundeof fyght then is their teaching offence & not defence, for in true fyght against the best no hurt can be don. And yf both haue the full prsection of true fyght, then the one will not be able to hurt the other at what prfyt weapon so ever.

For it cannot be sayd y' yf a man go to the feld & cannot be suretodesend him self in fight & to com saf home, yf goid be not against him whither he fyght w' a man of skyll or no skil it may not be said y' such a man is Mast' of the Noble scyence of desence, or that he hath the prsection of true syght, for yf both haue the prsection of their weapons, yf by any Device, on should be able to hurt the other, ther were no prsection in the syght of weapons, & this sirmely hold in yo' mynd for a generall rule, to be the hayth & prsection of the true handling of al maner of weapons.

And also wheras yt said Vincentio in yt same booke hath written discours of honour & honourable quarrels making many reasons to prve meanes & wayes to enter yt feeld & cobat, both for the lye & other disgraces, al wth diabolicall devyces tendeth only to villayne & distruction as hurtynge, Maymynge & Murtheringe or kyllinge.

Annymating

Annymating ye mynds of yonge gentlemen & gallants to follow those rules to maintaine their honors & credits, but the end ther of for the most prte is eyther kyllinge or hanginge or both to their vtter vndoinge & great gres of themselues, & their friends, but then to late to call it againe. they consyder not the tyme & place that we lyue in, nor do not throughly looke into the danger of the lawe til it be to late, & for that in divers other cuntryes in these things they have a larger scope than we have in these our dayes.

Therfore it behoveth vs not upo euery abuse offered wher by o' bloud shalbe Inflamed, or o' choler kindled priently wt the fword or wt the stabb, or by force of Armes to seeke Reuenge, weh is the propre nature of wild beafts in their rage so to do, being voyde of the vse of reason, weh thinge should not be in Men of discreatio fo much to Degenerate, but he yt wil not endure an Iniurye, but will seeke revenge, then he ought to do it by Cyvill Order & prof, by good & holfom lawes, web are ordayned for such Causes, web is a thinge far more syt & requisted in a place of so Cyvell a gou'nment as we lyve in, then is the other, & who so follow these my Admonycions shalbe accounted as valvent a Man as hey! fyghteth & farr wyfer, for I fee no reason why a Man should adventure hys lyf & estate upo every trysle, but should rather put vp diu's abuses offered vnto him, because it is agreeable both to the Lawes of god & o' Cuntrye.

Why should not words be Answered wt words againe, but yf a Man by his enemye be charged wt blowes then may he Lawfully seeke the best meanes to defend him self, & In such a Case I hold it syt to vse his skyll & to show his force by his Deeds, yet so, yt his dealynge be not wt full Rygour to the others confusyon yf posfyble it may be eschewed.

Also take heed how yo appoynt the field wtyo' Enemye publickly because o' Lawes do not prmyt yt, neyther appoint to meet him in pryvat sort lest yo wounding him he accuse yo of fellownye saying you have robbed him &c. Or he may laye companye closely to Murther you & then to report he dyd yt him self valyently in the seeld.

Also take heed of thyne Enemyes Stratagems, lest he fynd Meanes to make yo to looke a syde vpo somthing, or cause yo to shew whether yo have on a p'vye Coate, & so when yo Looke from him, he hurt or kyll you.

Take not armes vpo euery light occasyon, let not one fryend vpon a word or a tryfle violate another but let ech man zealously embrace fryendshyp, & turne not famylyaritie into strangnes, kyndnes into mallice, nor loue into hatred, norish not these strange & vnnaturall Alterations.

Do not wyckedly resolue one to seeke the others ou'throwe, do not confyrme to end thy Mallice by fyght because for the most prte y't endeth by Death.

Confyder when these things were most vsed in sormer Ages they sought not so much by envye the ruen & distruction on of another, they never tooke tryall by sword but in desence of Innocencye to maintayne blotless honour.

Do not vpon Euery tryfle make an Action of revenge, or of Defyance.

Go not into the feeld wt thy fryend at his Intreatye to take his prte but first know ye mann' of ye quarrell how Justly or vniustlye it grow, & do not ther in maintaine wronge wronge against ryght, but examyne the cause of the contravercye, & yf ther be reason for his rage to lead him to y' mortall resolution.

Yet be the cause neuer so Just, go not w' him neyther further nor suffer him to fight yf possyble it may by any meanes be otherwyse ended & wyll him not to enter into so dangerous an action, but leue it till neccesytic requireth it.

And this I hold to be the best Course for it is soolishnes & endlesse troble to cast a stone at everye Dogge yt barks at you. this noble scyence is not to cause on man to abuse another iniuriouslye but to vse it in their necessyties to desend them in their Just Causes & to maintaine their honour & Credits.

Therfore flye al rashnes, pryde, & doynge of Iniurie all soule faults & errours herin, prsume not on this, & therbye to think it lawfull to offer Iniurye to Anye, think not yorself Invincible, but consyder yt often a verye wretch hath kylled a taule man, but he yt hath humanytie, the more skylful he is in this noble science, the more humble, modest, & Vrtuous he should shew him self both in speech & Action, no lyer, no vaunter nor quarreller, for these are the causes of Wounds, Dishonour & Death.

Yf you talke w' great men of honourable qualitie w' such chiefly haue regarde to frame yo' speeches & Answer so reverent, y' a foolish word, or froward Answer geve no occasyon of offence for often they breed Deadly hatted, Cruell murthers & extreem ruens &c.

Ever shun al occasions of quarrels, but marshall men cheislye generals & great comanders should be exelent skylfull in the noble science of desence, therby to be 82 Bref Instructions.
able to answer quarrels, Combats & Chalenges in Defence of their prince & Cuntry.

Vale.

Bref Instructions upo my pradoxes of Defence for the true handlyng of all Mann of weapons together w' the fower grownds & the fower gownors w' governours are left out in my pradoxes w'out the knowledge of w' no Man can fight saf.

Cap. I.

The fower grownds or | 1. | Judgment principls of y true | 2. | Distance fyght at all manner of | 3. | Tyme | Weapons are these 4, viz. | 4. | Place.

He reason wherof these 4 grownds or prociples be the fyrst & cheefest, are the followinge, because through Judgment, yo kepe yor dystance, through Distance yo take yor Tyme, through Tyme yo safly wyne or gayne the Place of yor adursarie, the Place beinge woon or gayned yo haue tyme safly eyther to stryke, thrust, ward, cloze, grype, slyp or go back, in the web tyme yor enemye is disapoynted to hurt yo, or to defend himself, by reason that he hath lost his true Place, the reason ythe hath lost his True place is by the length of Tyme

Fref Instructions.

Tyme through the numbs of his feet, to we he is of necessivite Dryven to y' wilbe Agent.

The 4 gou nors are those of follow.

I. The fyrst gou'nor is Judgment weh is to know when yo' Adversarie can reach you, & when not, & when yo can do the lyke to him, & to know by the goodnes or badnes of his lyinge, what he can do, & when & how he can p'forme it.

2. The second gou'nor is Measure. Measure is the better to know how to make yo' space true to defend yo' felf, or to offend yor enemye.

3. The third & fourth gourners is a twyfold mynd when yo press in on yor enemye, for as yo have a mynd to go 4. forwarde, so yo must have at yt instant a mynd to sly backwarde vpo any action yt shalbe offered or don by yor adursarie.

Certaine general rules we must be obsyved in y priyt wse of al kynde of weapons. Cap. 2.

Yrst when you com into the feeld to encounter wt yor Enemy, obsyve wel the scope, Evennes & vneunnes of yor grounde, put yorself in redynes wtyor weapon, before yor enemye Com win distance, set the svnn in his face travers yf possible yo can still remembrynge yor gournors.

2. Let al yo' lyinge be such as shal best like yo'self, euer consyderinge out what fyght yo' Enemye chargeth yo, but be sure to kepe yo' distance, so y' nether hed, Armes, hands, body, nor legges be win hys reach, but yt he "Put inkis foot," must fyrst of necessitie put in his foote or feet, at web tyme yo have the Choyse of iii Actions by the web yo may endang' him & go free yo'felf.

M 2

"Hiscomingein." 1. The fyrst is to strike or thrust at him, at y' instant when he have gayned yo the place by his cominge in The second is to ward, & Aft' to strike or thrust from Silver's time the 2.

yt, remembringe yor gournors

The thyrd is to flippe alyttle backe & to strike or thrust after hym.

but euer remember yt in the fyrst motion of your and "traverses," Adversarye towarde yo, yt yo slyde a lyttle back so shall yo be prpred in due tyme to prforme anye of the iii Actions Aforesaid, by disappointinge him of his true place, whereby yo shall saffye defend yorselfe & endanger him.

> remember also yt yf through fear or polysye, he strike or thrust short, & ther wt go back, or not go back, follow him vpon yo' twofold gou'nors, so shall yo' warde & flype be prformed in lyke mann as before, & yo'self stil be saf.

Kepe yo' dystance & suffer not yo' adu'sarie to wyn 3. or gayne the place of you, for yf he shall so do, he may endanger to hurt or kyll you.

Know yt the place is, when on may stryke or thrust home wtout puttinge in of his foot.

Yt may be obiected against thys last ground, yt men "Towynorgoyne do often strike & thrust at the half sword & yet the the place;" i.e. to fame is priytly defended, where to I answer yt that defence is prfytly made by reason yt the warder hath his true space before the stryker or thruster is in his force or entred into his action.

Bref Instructions.

Therfore alwaies do p'vent both blow & thrust, the "Space" in the blow by true space, & the thrust by narrow space yt is diffance which true croffinge it before the same cominto their full force, but to traverse in other wyse the hand of the Agent beinge as swyft as ye changing from hand of the patient, the hand of ye Agent beinge the another: thus fyrst mou', must of necessytic strike or thrust y' prte of from "medium" ye patient weh shalbe stryken or thrust at because the "guerte" or would tyme of yt hand to the tyme of ye hand, beinge of lyke be a "narrow swyftnes the fyrst mou' hath ye aduantage. Space," while from "tierce" to When yo' enemy shal press vpon you, he wilbe Open "septime" or in one place or other, both at fyngal & dubble weapon, from "feconde". or at the least he wilbe to weake in his ward vpon such to "grante" would be a very priffinge, then strike or thrust at such open or weakest "myde space," prte y' yo shal fynd neerest.

When yo attempt to wyn the place, do it vpon gard, remembringe yor gournors, but when he prsseth vpo yo & gayneth yo The place, then strike or thrust at him Atime bit or in his comynge in,

Or yf he shal stryke or thrust at yo, then Ward it, & stryke or thrust at him from yor warde, & fly backe Parry and Instantly accordinge to yor gournors, so shall yo escape Silver is pers saflie, for that the syrst Motion of the seete backwarde careful to emis more swyst, then the first motion of the feet forwarde, the meessing of "figwher by yor regressyon wilbe more swyster, then his ing backe," i.e. course in prgressyon to Anoye you, the reason is, that getting away, in the fyrst motyon of his prgressyon his Numbe & immediately after an attack, Waight is greater then you are, in yor first motyon of whether it be yo' regressyon, neu'theless al men knowe that the co-successful or tynual course of the feet forwarde is more swyft then the Contynuall Course of ye feet backwards.

6. yf yo' enemye lye in varyable fyght, & stryke or Time hits & thrust at yo then be sure to kepe yo Distance & strike thrusts.

Therfore

known, at least to English fencers, 3. U the only movements of the feet were "paffes" which with "flips" conflituted a great part of the defence as well as of the attack. " Paffes" were Aeps either forwards or backwards and the "Iraverses" were steps in a lateral direction. "Slips" were little sbort steps i.e. advance.

It must be re-

lunge was unmembered that in either lateral or

These movements were also much used in feints of backwards.

come within Ariking distance.

87

or thrust at such open prte of him as are neerest vnto you, viz, at the hand, Arme, hed, or legg of him, & go back w' all.

yf ij men fight at varyable fyght, & yf w'in distance, 7. they must both be hurt, for in such fight they Cannot make a true Croffe, nor haue tyme trulye to Judge, by reason y' the swyft motyon of the hand, beinge a swyfter mouer, then the eye Deceyveth the eye, at what weapon soeuer yo shal fyght w' all, as in my pradoxes of desence in the chapter therof doth appere.

Looke to the grype of yor Enemye, & vpo his flype 8. take such warde as shal best fyt your hand, from weh the left hand, - warde strike or thrust, stil remembrynge yo' gouernors, > yf yo can Indirect yo enemye at any kynde of weapon, 9. then yo have the advantage, because he must move his feet to direct him felf Againe, & yo in the meane tyme may strike or thrust at him, & fly out fast, before he can offer anything at you, his tyme wilbe so longe.

When you shall Ward blow or thrust, made at you 10. right or left prte, wt any kynd of weapon, remember to Draw yor hynde foot a lyttle c'culerlye, from that prte to weh the same shalbe made, wher by yo shall make yor defence the more prfyt, & shal stand the more Apt to strike or thrust from yt.

A declaration of al the 4 generall fyghts to be vsed w' the sword at dubble or syngle, longe or short, & w' Certaine pticuler rules to them Annexed.

Cap. 3.

Pen fyght is to Carrye yo' nand & nyn a lone ... gaboue yo' hed, eyther w' poynt vpright, or alia" of Marezpoint backwards web is best, yet vse that web guardia" of yo shall fynd most aptest, to strike, thrust, or Viggiani. ward.

2. Gardant fyght in gen'all is of ij forts, ye fyrst is true A"banging" gardant fyght, weh is eyther prfyt or Imprfyt.

"True gardant" The privt is to carry yor hand & hylt aboue yor hed is a High Prime. wt yor poynt doune to wards yor left knee, wt yor fword blade somewhat neer yor bodye, not bearing out your poynt, but rather declynynge in a lyttle towards yor faid knee, yt yor enemye crose not yor poynt & so hurt Command. you, stand bolt vpright in this fyght, & yf he offer to presse in then bere yor hed & body a lyttle backwarde.

The Imprfyt is when yo bere yo' hand & fword hylt To fland with the priyt hayth aboue yor hed, as aforefayd but leanynge forward is an or stoopinge forwarde we yor body & therby yor space "impersea" wilbe to Wyde on both fyds to defend the blow stryken position. at the left fyde of yo' hed or to wyde to defend a thrust from the right fyde of the body,

Also it is Imprsyt, yf yo bere yo' hand & hylt as aforefayd, berynge yo' poynt to farr out from yo' knee, so y' yo' enemy May Cross, or strike Asyde yo' poynt, & therby endanger you.

A

The

The "grype" is the feizing of the Sword-hilt with for this purpose a "Enanto da presa," or gripping gauntlet with the palm protetled with fine mail, was sometimes used. To "indirea" is to either manauvreor force him from the true line of direction.

A Demi-volte.

"Bastardgarmore central.

The second is bastard gardant fyght web is to Carrye dani" is a kind of yor hand & hylt below yor hed, breft hye or lower we high feconde, but yor yor poynt downwarde towarde yor left foote, this bastard gardant ward is not to be vsed in fyght, ecept it be to Crosse yor enemyes Ward at his comynge in to take the grype of him or fuch other advantage, as in diu's placs of ye fword fyght is fet forth.

" Forehand ward" is a medium guard.

Close fyght is when yo Cross at ye half sword eyther 2. aboue at forehand ward y' is w' poynt hye, & hande & hylt lowe, or at true or bastard gardant ward w' both yor poynts doun.

Close is all mann of fyghts wherin yo have made a 4. true Crose at the half sword wt yor space very narrow & not Crost, is also close fyght.

Variable fyght is al other mann of lyinge not here before spoken of, wher of these 4 that follow are the

Stocata: wch is to lye wt yor right legge forwarde, wt (1.) yor fword or rapior hylt back on the out fyde of yor evidently miscon- right thygh wt yor poynt forewarde to ward yor enemye, wt yor dagge in yor other hand extendinge yor hand to wards the poynt of yor rapior, holdinge yor daggr wt ye poynt vpright wt narrow space betweene yor rapior blade, & the nayles of yor daggr hand, kepynge vor rapior poynt back behind yor daggr hand yf posfyble,

> Or he may lye wyde below vnd' his dagg' w' his rapior poynt doun towards his enemyes foote, or wt his poynt fourth w' out his dagg'.

> Imbrocata: is to lye wt yor hylt hyer then yor hed, beringe yor knuckles vpwarde, & yor point depending towarde yo' Enemys face or brest.

Mountanta: is to Carrye yor rapior pummell in the palm

Bref Instructions. palm of yor hand resting it on yor lyttle fynger wt yor hand belowe & so movntynge it vp a lost, & so to com in wt a thrust vpo yor Enemyes face or brest, as out of ye Imbrocata.

4. Paffata; is eyther to pass wt ye Stocata, or to carrye yor fword or rapior hylt by yor right flanke, we yor The hort poynt directly against you Enemyes belly, we you lest fell man a foote torwarde, extendinge fourth yor daggr hand we fight with a onethe poynt of yor dagger forwarde as yo do yor fword, and without the w' narrow space between yo' sword & dagg' blade, & affitance of a defensive weapon in fo to make yor passage vpon him, the left band.

Also any other kynd of varyable fyght or lycinge The "fwerd whatsoeuer a man can devise not here expressed, is dubble" is any cotayned vnder this fight.

kind of fingleband fword affifted by a defensive weapon in the other.

Of the short syngle sword fyght against the lyke weapon.

F yo' enemye lye a loft, eyther in open or true Abigb prime.
gardant fight, & then strike at the left syde of yo' hed or body yo' best ward to desend yo' self, is to bere it w' true gardant ward, & yf he strike & com in to the cloze, or to take the grype of you yo may then fafly take the grype of him as it appereth in the chapter of the grype, 2. but yf he do strike & not com in, then instantly vpo "ripste." yor ward, vncrose & strike him either on the right or "Fly out" fugleft syde of ye hed, & fly out instantly.

Yf yo bere this w' forhand ward, be fure to ward his feet, but might blowe, or kepe yor distance, otherwyse he shall decue also mean a back-

Cap. 4.

movement of the

The Italian terms were imperfectly underflood in England cheefest of them. at the end of the XV Ith century. & Silver has firued them. "Quinta guardia" of Capo Ferro.

" Prima guardia" of Capo Ferro. "Guardia a!ta" of Alfieri, & " Guardia di becha poffa" of Marozzo. "Quarta guardia" of you w' euery false, stil endangeringe yo' hed, face, hand, Armes, bodye, & bendynge knee, w' blow or thrust. Therfore kepe well yo' dystance, because yo can very hardly deserne (being w' in dystance), by web syde of yo' sword he will stryke, nor at web of those prts afore-sayd, because the swyst motion of ye hand deceyveth the eye,

Alfieri.

A finitar guard is favoured by fome modern Auftrian fabre players. A time thrust in "quarte" at the fword hand.

Jword band.

A "quarte" parry, followed by "ripofte" or
"grip."

yf he lye a loft & strike as aforesaid at yo' head, yo may 4. endanger him yf yo thrust at his hand, hilt, or Arme, turninge yo' knuckles dounwarde, but sly back w' all in the instant y' yo thrust, yf he lye a loft as aforesaid, & strike a loft at the left 5. fyde of yo'hed, yf yo wil ward his blow w' forehand ward, then be sure to kepe yo' distance, except he com so c'taine that yo be sure to ward his blow, at w' tyme yf he com in w' all, yo may endanger him from y' ward, eyther by blow, thrust or grype, yf he lye a lost & yo lye a lowe wt yor sword in the 6. varyable fyght, then yf yo offer to ward his blow made at yor hed, wt true gardant ward yor tyme wilbe to longe Due in tyme to make a sure ward, for that it is bett to bere it wt forehand ward, but be sure to kepe yor distance, to make him com in wt his seet, wher by his tyme wilbe to longe to do yt he intendeth.

yf ij Men fight both vpo open fyght he yt first break-7. eth his distance, yf he attempt to stryke at the others hed, shalbe surely stryken on the hed himself, yf the patient Agent strike ther at in his Comynge in, & slyp a lyttle back wt all, for yt slydinge back maketh an indirection, wherby yo' blow Crosseth his hed, & maketh a true ward for yo' owne, this will yt be, because of his length of tyme in his comynge in,

A time hit with "opposition."

Bref Instructions.

Also yf ij fyght vpon open fyght, it is better for the patient to strike home strongly at the Agents hed, when the said Agent shal press vpon him to wyn the place then to thrust, because the blow of the patient is not only hurtful to the Agent, but it also maketh a true Crose to desend his owne hed,

9. yf he charge yo a loft, out of the open or true gardant fyght, yf yo answer him wt ye Imprfyt gardant fyght, wt yo' body leanynge forwarde, yo' space wilbe to wyde on both syde to make a true ward in due tyme, & yo' arme And body wilbe to neere vnto him, so that wt the bending in of his body wt the tyme of hand & foote, he may take the grype of you,

but yf yo stand vpright in true gardant fyght, then he cannot reach to take the grype of you, nor otherwise to offend yo yf you kepe yo' distance, w'out puttinge in of his foote or feete wherin his number wilbe to great, & "Number wilbe so to great, bo great," i.e. so his tyme wilbe to longe, & yo in that tyme may by will have to make puttinge in of yo' body take the grype of him, yf he press to make putting only yo' hand, or hand & soote, & ther pessen your young fryke or thrust w' yo' sword & sty out w'all accordinge to yo' governors, se more of this, in the chapter of the grype.

10. yf he wil stil prsse forcibly a lost vpo you, Charginge yout of the open fyght or true gardant fyght, Intendinge to hurt yo in the face or hed, or to take the grype of yo Against such a on, you must vse both gardant & open fyght, wherby vpon euery blow or thrust that he shall make at you, you may from yo' wards, strike or thrust him on the sace hed or bodye as it appeareth more at large in the 5th Chapter of these my Instructions.

11. yf yofyghtwon y flandeth only vpon his gardant fyght Avariety of

Alfo

O

in order to prevent fatigue.

Bref Instructions. guards to be used or yf he seeke to com in to yo by the same fyght, then do yoftrike & thrust Contynually at al mann of open place that shall com neerest vnto you, still remembringe you gou'nors, so shall he Contynually be in dang, & often wounded, & weryed in that kynd of fyght, & you shalbe faf, the reason is, he is a crtaine marke to you, & yo are an vnc taine marke to hym.

And further because he tyeth him self vnto on kynd of fyght only, he shalbe wearyed for want of Change of lyinge, & yo by reason of many changes shal not only styll fyght at ease, & much more braue, but you haue lykewyse iiij fyghts to his one, to wytt, gardant, open, close, & variable fyght, to his gardant only, therfore yt fight only is not to be stode vpon or vsed.

But yfalthis will not fue, & although he hath receyved 12. Many Wounds, wyl contynually run on to com in, & forcibly breake yo' dystance, then may you saffly take the grype of him, & hurt him at yor pleasurewt yor sword, as appeareth in the chapter of the grype, & he can nether hurt nor take ye grype of yo, because the numbr of his feet are to many, to bringe his hand in place in due tyme, for fuch a on ever geueth yo the place, therfore befure to take yo' tyme herin.

In "Sword and Buckler" or " Sword and Dagger" fighting, strike with up his heels. Lonergan, 1771.

"fyck fyt" (fic fit).

In the lyke fort may yo do at fword & daggr, or fword & buckler, at fuch tyme as I say, y' yo Maye take the grype at the syngle sword fyght, yo may then insteed of the grype, foundly stryke him wtyor buckler on the hed weapon instead of or stabb him w' yo' dagg' & instantly eyther stryke vp his gripping, and trip heeles or fly out, & as he lyketh yt coolinge card to his hot braine, fyck fyt, so let him com for another.

yf ij fyght & that both lye vpo the true gardant fyght 13. & that one of them will neede feek to wyn the half fword

by pressinge in, yt may yo sastye do, for vpo yt fyght the half sworde may safflye be woon, but he y' first cometh in, Must fyrst go out, & ytprsently, otherwise his gard wilbe to wyde aboue to defend his hed, or yf fyt for yt defence, then wil it be to wyde vnd neath to defend yt thrust fro his body web things the patient Agent may do, & fly out The "patient faf, & yt Agent cannot avoyd it, because the moving of Agent" is the his feet maketh his ward vnequall to defend both prts in upon the defendue tyme, but the one or the other wilbe disceived & in five, the "Agent" danger, for he being Agent vpon his first entrance his tyme settecks. (by reason of yt numbr of his feet), wilbe to longe, so yt ye patient Agent may first enter into his action, & the Agent must be of force an after doer, & therfore cannote avoyde this offence aforesaid.

14. yf he com in to encounter the Cloze & grype vpo ye bastard gardant ward, then yo Maye Crosse his blade wt yor vpo the lyke gardant ward also, & as he cometh in wt his feet & haue gayned yo the place, yo may p'sently vncrosse & stryke him a sound blowe on ye hed, & sty out instantly, wher in he cannot offend yo by reason of his loft tyme, nor defend him felf vpon yor vncroffing, because his space is to wyde wherby his tyme wilbe to longe in due tyme to prvent yor blowe, this may yo do fafly.

15. yf he co in vpon the bastard gardant ward, bearing his hylt lower than his hed, or but brest hye or lower, then strik him foundly on the hed web thinge yo may easylve do, because his space is to wyde in due tyme to ward the fame.

16. yf yo' Enemy charge you vpo his Stocata fyght, yo May ly variable wt large Distance & vnctaine wt you fword & bodye at yor pleasure, yet so yt yo may stryke, thrust of defence.

Bref Instructions.

thrust or Ward, & go forth & back as occasion is, to take ye advantage of this comynge in, whether he doth it out of the Stocata, or passata, we advantage yo shalbe sure to haue, yf yo obsrue this rule & be not to rash in you "The number of actions, by reason yt ye number of his feet wilbe great, & also because when those ij fyghts are met together, it is he will have to hard to Make a true Crosse, therfore wtout Large dysfleps or "paffes," dance be kept of them, Commonly they are both hurt or slayne, because in narrow distance their hands have free Course & are not tyed to the tyme of ye foote, by w^{ch} fwyft motion of the hand the eye is deceyved, as yo

You may also vse this fyght, against the longe sword.

cap: of my prdoxes

or longe rapior, fyngle & dubble,

may read more at large in the vpon this ground fom shallow wytted fellow may say, yf the patient must keep large distance then he must be dryven to goback styll, to weh I answer yt in the contynnuall motion & travers of his ground he is to travers circuler wyfe, forwards, backwards, vpo the right hand, & vpo the left hand, the web travers is still a certaintye to be vsed win him self, & not to be prvented by ye Agent, because the Agent cometh one vpo an vnc taine marke, for when he thinketh to be sure of his purpose, the patient is forntymes on the on fyde, & forn tymes on ye other syde, somtymes to far back, & somtymes to neere, fo yt stil the Agent must vse the numbr of his feet web wilbe to longe to answer ye hand of ye patient Agent, & it cannot be denyed but the patient Agent by reason of his large distance, stil seeth what ye Agent doth in his comyng, but the Agent cannot se what the other doth, til the patient Agent be into his Action, therfore to late for him eyther to hurt the patient, or in due tyme to defend him self, because he entreth his actio vpo ye knowledge of the patient, but he knowt not what ye patient Agent will do til it be to late.

17. yf the Agent say y' then he wil stand fast vpon som fure gard & somtymes moving & travising his ground, & kepe large distance as ye patient do, to weh I answer, yt when if men shal meete yt have both the prsection of their weapons, against the best no hurt canbe don, other wife yf by any devise on should be able to hurt theother, then werther no prfection in ye vseof weapons, this preection of fyght being observed, preenteth both close fyght, & al mann of clozes, grype & wrestling & al mann of fuch other devices what so euer.

Also yf he charge yo vpo his Stocata, or any other lying aft yt fashion, wt his poynt low & large paced, then lye yo a loft w' yo' hand & hylt aboue yo' hed, eyther true gardant, or vpo the open fight, then he cannot reach yo yf yo kepe yo' distance w'out putting in of his foot or feet, but yo may reach him w' the tyme of yor hand, or wt the tyme of your hand & body, or of hand, body & foot, because he hath al redy put in his body w'in yo' reach & haue gayned yo the place, & yo are at lybertye & w'out his reach, til he put in his foot or feete, weh tyme is to longe to answer the tyme of yor hand, & his space to wyde in that place to make a ward in due tyme to defend his hed, Armes & hande, one of wch wilbe alwaies wt in yor reach.

note stil in this yt yor weapons be both short of ye

Equal & convenient length of ye short sword.

19. yf out of his varyable fyght he strike at ye right or left syde of the hed or body, then yor best ward is to bere

This is exally the traverse recommended by Roworth.

his feet will be great"—i.e.

bere it wt fore hand ward, otherwise yor space wilbe to wyde & to far to make yo' ward in due tyme.

Yf he lye variable aft' the mann' of the passata then 20. yf yo lye a loft as is aboue said, yo haue the Advantage. because he yt lyeth varyable cannot reach home, at hed hand or arme, w'out putting in of his foote or feet, & therfore it cannot be denyed, but y' he y' playeth aloft, hath stil the tyme of the hand to the tyme of ye foot, web fight beinge truly handled is aduantage invincible.

Yf he lye variable vpo the Imbrocata, then make a 21. narrow space wt yor poynt vpwarde, & sodainly vf vo can Crose his poynt wt yor blade put asyde his poynt strongly wt yor sword & strik or thrust at him, & sly out instantly, euer remembring yor gouernors y' he de-ceve yo not in taking of his poynt.

yf he strike or thrust at yo' lege or lower prte out of 22. any fyght, he shal not be able to reach the same vnless yo stand large paced wt bendinge knee, or vnless he com Silver's time the knees were very in wt his foote or feete, the wch yf he shal so do, then yo may strik or thrust at his arme or vpper prte for then he putteth them into the place gayning yo the thrust at the arm place wherby you may strike home vpo him & he cannot reach yo.

but yf he stand large paced wt bendinge knee then wyn the place & strike home freely at his knee, & fly back ther wt.

yf he com to the close fight w' yo & y' yo are both 23. crost alost at ye half sword wt both yor points vpwards, Forcible pressure then yf he com in wt all in his Crossing bere strongly vor hand & hylt out his wrift, close by his hylt putting it ouer at ye backfyde of his hand & hylt prstinge doune his hand & hylt strongly & sodainly, in yor entring in, little bent. A time hit or or upper parts.

From this it appears that in

Parries of "tierce" and of "quarte,"

in "tierce" at " half-sword."

Bref Instructions.

& so thrust yor hylt in his face, or strike him vpo ye Recommended hed w' y' fword, & strike vp his heeles, & fly out, Lonergan, 1771.

24. yf yo are both so crost at ye bastard gardant ward, & yf he then press in, then take the grype of him as is shewed in ye chapter of ye grype,

Or wt yor left hand or arme, strike his sword blade Beating the strongly & sodainly towarde you left syde by weh meanes food away with yo are uncrost, & he is discoured, then may yo thrust lest hand. him in the body w' yo' fword & fly out instantly, we' thinge he cannot avoyd, nether can he offend yo

Or being so crost, yo may sodainly uncrose & strike An alternative. him vpo the hed & fly out instantly we thinge yo may faffy do & go out free.

25. yf yo be both crost at ye half sword we hys poynt vp & yor poynt doune in the true gardant ward, then yf he press to com in, then eyther take ye grype of him, Again the as in the chapter of the grype, or we you left hand or alternatives of arme, strike out his sword blade towards are left full or "gripping" and arme, strike out his sword blade towards yor left syde as beating the atorefaid, & so yo may thrust him in the body wt yor found of. fword & fly out instantly.

Do yo neuer attempt to cloze or com to ye grype at these weapons vnless it be vpo the slow motio or disorder of yor enemye,

but yf he will cloze we you, then yo may take the When he engrype of him fafly at his comynge in, for he yt first by closes, "grip" tronge proffing in advantuable the class leaflest to bim. stronge pressing in adventureth the cloze looseth it, & is in great danger, by reason yt the numb of his seet are to great, wherby his tyme wilbe to longe, in due tyme to answer the hand of ye patient Agent, as in the chapter of the grype doth plainly appere,

27. Alwaies remembring yf yo fyght vpc the variable fight yt yo ward vpo forehand ward, otherwise yor space

wilbe

wilbe to wyde in due tyme to make a true gardant ward, to defend yor felf.

yf yo fyght vpo open fyght, or true gardant fyght, 28. neuer ward vpo forehand ward for then yo' space wilbe to wyde also, in due tyme to make a sureward, yf he lye aloft wt his poynt towarde you, aftr the 29. mann' of the Imbrocata, then make yo' space narrow wt yor point upwarde & put by his poynt, & strike or thrust as aforesaid but be sure herin to kepe yor distance, yt he deceue you not in taking of his poynt.

" Parrying" and " Ripofling."

Of div's advantages y you may take by strykinge fro yo warde at y sword fyght.

Cap. 5.

A parry in " high tierce" with its ripoftes. F yo' enemy strike at the right syde of yo' hed, 1.
yo lyinge true gardant, then put yo' hilt a little doune, Mounting yo' poynt, so that yo' blade May Crosse a thwart yo' face, so shal yo make A true ward for the right fyde of yo' hed, from the web ward yo may instantly strike him on the ryght or left syde of the hed, or to turne doune yor poynt, & thrust him in the bodye, or you may strike him on the left syde of the body, or on the out syde of his left thygh.

Or yo may strike him on the out syde of the right thygh, on of those he cannot avoyd yf he fly not back instantly vpo his blowe, because he know not we of these the patient Agent wil do.

Yf yō lye vpō yor true gardant ward, & he strike 2. at the left fyde of yor hed, yo haue the choyse from yor ward to strike him from yt, on the right or left syde of

A parry of "prime" with its ripofles.

Bref Instructions.

the hed, or to turne doune yor poynt, & thrust him in the bodye, or yo May stryke him on the out syde of the right or left thygh, for the reason aboue sayde in the last rule, except he fly out instantly vpo his blowe.

Yf he charge yo vpon the open or true gardant fyght, yf yo wil answer him w' the lyke, then kepe yo' distance, & let yor gatheringe be all waies in yt fyght to warde his right syde so shal yo w' yor sword choake vp any blowe that he can make at yo, from the weh ward yo May stryke him on the right or left syde of ye hed, or thrust him in the bodye.

but yf he thrust at your face or body, then yo may out of yor gardant fight break it down warde wt yor A thrull parried fword bering yor poynt strongly towarde yor right syde, "feconde," and from the web breaking of his thrust yo may likwise strike its ripostes. him fro the right or left syde of ye hed, or thrust him in the bodye.

4. Yf yo meet wt on yt cannot strike fro his warde, vpo fuch a on yo may both dubble & faulse & so deceue him, but yf he be skylful yo must not do so, because he wilbe stil so vnc taine in his traverse that he will styll prvent you of tyme & place, so yt when yo think to T, " dubble" = dubble & false, yo shal gayne him the place & ther vpo "remise." he wilbe before yo in his action, & in yo' comynge he to "faulse" = will stil endanger yo,

5. yf yo fyght vpo the variable fyght, & that yo receue A parry of a blow we forehand ward, made at the right syde of yot "tieree" with hed or body, yo haue ye choise of viij offenciue Actions fro y' ward, the first to stryke him on the right syde, eyther on the hed should, or thygh, or to thrust him in the body, or to stryke him on the left syde either on the hed shold or thygh, or to thrust him in the body, the lyke may yo do yf he strike eur at yor left syde, as is aboue said, yf yo bere it wt fore hand ward.

In this forehand ward kepe yo' distance, & take heed 6. y' he deceyue yo not w' the dounright blowe at yo' hed out of his open fyght, for being wt in distance ye swift motion of ye hand May deceue yo' eye, because yo know not by web syde of yor sword his blow wil com

Also se yt he deceue yo not vpo any false offerynge to 7. stryke at the on syde, & when therby yo haue turned you poynt asyde, then to strike on the other syde, but yf yo kepe distance yo are free from yt, therfore styll in all yor actions remembry gournors

yf he wil do nothinge but thrust, Answer him as it 8. is fet doune in the 16th ground of ye short sword fyght

& also in div places of the 8th chaptr.

How to engage with a man who uses point.

Parry of

"quarte."

Also consyder yf he lye at the thrust vpon ye stocata, q. or passata, & yo haue no waye to avoyde him, except yo can Crosse his sword blade w' yor, & so Indirect his poynt, therfore kepe narrow space vpo his poynt, & kepe well yo' distance in vsing yo' travers.

but yf he put forth his poynt so yt yo may Cross it wt fore hand ward, for yf yo waeth for his thrust then lye vpo forehand ward wt poynt alittle vp. yf he lye wt his poynt Mounted, & yf yo fyngle yo' thrust vpo the out fyde of yo' fword to warde yo' right fyde, or back of yo' fword hand, strike or bere his poynt out towarde yor right syde, & ther vpon putting forward yor body & left foote Circuler wyse to warde his right syde yo May strike him vpo his sword Arme, hed, face or bodye.

A " demivolte" " quarte."

Or yf yo take it on the Infyde of yo' fword blade to after a parry of warde you left syde then wt you sword put by his poynt strongly & sodainly towarde yor left syde, drawing

Bref Instructions.

yo' left foote Circuler wyfe back behind the heele of yo' right foote, & strike him on the insyde of his sword hand or Arme or on the hed, face, or body, & fly out accordinge to yor gournors

This May yo vie against ye sword & dagge longe or fhort, or rapior & ponyard, or fword & buckler.

10. Also rememb yf he haue a longe sword, & yo a short fword, euer to Make yor space so narrow, ye yo may alwaies break his thrust before y' be in force yf possible yo may, & also to kepe large distance whether he charge yo out of the Stocata, passata, or Imbrocata &c, of this yo may fe more at large in the 8th chapter.

The mann of Certaine gryps & Clozes to be vsed at ye syngle short sword syght &c. Cap. 6.

F he strike aloft at the left syde of yo' hed, and run in w' all to take the Cloze or grype of you, then ward it gardant, & enter in w' yo' left syde puting in yo' left hand, on the insyde of his fword Arme, neere his hylte, bering yot hand our his Arme, & Wrape in his hand & sworde vnd vor Arme, as he cometh in, Wresting his hand & sword close to your bodye turninge back yor right fyde from him, fo shal he not be able to reach yo' sword, but yo shall styll haue it at lybertye to stryke or thrust him & endanger the breakinge of his Arme, or the takinge away of his fword by yt grype.

2. Yf yo are both Crost in Close fyght vpon the bastard gardant ward alowe, yo May put yo' left hand on the out fyde of his fword at the back of his hand, neere or at the hylte of his fword Arme & take him on the infyde of y' arme w' yo' hand, aboue his elbowe is best, & draw him in towarde yo strongly, wrestinge his knuckles dounwarde & his elbowe vpwarde so may yo endang to break his arme, or cast him doune, or to wrest his sword out of his hand, & go free yor felf.

103

in like fort vpo this kynd of cloze, yo may clape yo' 2. left hand vpo the wrist of his sword arme, holding it strongly & ther w' thrust him hard from yo, & p'sently yo may thrust him in the body wt yor sword for in yt Instant he can nether ward, strike, nor thrust, yf he strike home at the left syde of yo' hed, & ther 4. wt all com in to take the cloze or grype of your hilt or fword arme we his left hand, first ward his blow gardant, & be fure to put in yo' left hand und' yo' fword & take hold on the out fyde of his left hand, Arme or fleve, putting yor hand under the wrift of his Arme wt the toppe of yor fing "vpwarde, & yor thumb & knuckles dounwarde, then pluck him strongly towarde yor left fyde, so shal yo indirect his feet turning hys left should towarde yo, vpo weh instant yo Maye strike or thrust him wt yor fword & fly out faf, for his feet being indirected, although he hath his fword at lyberty, yet shal he not be able to Make any offencyve fight against yo because his tyme wilbe to longe to direct his feet againe to vse his sword in due tyme.

Also yf he attempt the cloze or grype wt you vpon 5. his bastard gardant ward, then crosse his sword wt the lyke ward, & as he cometh in wt his feet you have the tyme of yor hand & bodye, wherby wt yor left hand or Arme yo May put by his fword blade, weh thinge you must sodainly & strongly do, casting it towarde yor left fyde, so may yo vncrosse & thrust him in ye body wt yor sword & fly out instantlye, for yf yo stay ther he wil direct his sword againe & endanger yo, this may safly be don, or yo May vncrosse & turne yo poynt vp, & strike him on the hed, & fly out instantly.

- Yf he presse in to the half sword vpo a forehand ward, then strike a sound blow at the left syde of his hed turnyng strongely yo' hand & hylt pressing down his fword hand & arme strongly, & strike yor hilt full in his face, beringe yor hilt strongly vpo him, for yor hand beinge vpprmost yo haue the aduantage in ye grype, for so May yo breake his face w' yor hylt, & strike vp his heels wt yor left foote, and throwe him a great fall, al this May fafly be don by reason yt he is weake in his comynge in by y' moving of his feet, & yo repell him in ye fulnes of yor strength, as appeareth in the Chapter of ye short single sword fyght, in the 23rd grownde of the fame,
- 7. remember that yo neur attempt the Cloze nor grype but looke to his flyppe, Confyder what is faid in the 8th gentall rule in the Second Chapter, & also in the 26th ground of the fyngle fword fyght in the 4th Chapter.

Of the short sword & dagger syght Against the lyke Weapon. Cap. 7.

BSRVE at these weapons the form rules, defend w yo' fword & not w yo' dagg, yet yo may cross his sword we yor dagge, yf yo may conveniently reach the fame therwt, wt out puttinge in of yor foote, only by bendinge in of yor body, other

Also yo may put by his sword blade wt yor daggr When 2. yor swords are Crost, eyther aboue at forehand ward, or belowe at the bastard gardant ward & ther wt instantly strike or thrust wt yor sword & sly out according to yor gournors, of this yo may see more at large in ye Chapter of the syngle sword fight in the 24th ground of the same.

Also yf he be so soolehardye to com to the cloze, 3. then yo may gard wt yor sword & stabb wt yor daggr, & sty out saf, wth thinge yo may do because his tyme is to longe by the numbr of his seet, & yo haue but the swyst tyme of yor hand to use, & he cannot stabb til he haue setted in his seete, & so his tyme is to late to endangr yo, or to defend himself.

Know yt yf yo defend yo'felf wt yo' dagger in other 4. fort than is aforesaid, yo shalbe endangt to be hurt, because the space of yo' dagg' wilbe still to wyde to defend both blow & thrust for lacke of Circomference as ye buckler hath.

Also note when yo defend blow & thrust w' yo' sword 5. yo haue a neerer course to offend yo'enemyew' yo' sword then when yo ward w' yo' dagg', for then yo may for the most pree from yo' warde strike or thrust him.

6. Yo must neyther Cloze nor com to the grype at these weapons, vnless it be by the slow motyon or disordour of yo' adv'sarie, yet yf he attempt ye Cloze, or to com to the grype w' yo, then yo may safly Cloze & hurt him w' yo' dagg' or buckler & go free yo' self, but fly out according to yo' gou'nors & ther by yo shal put him from his attempted Cloze, but se yo stay not at any tyme w'in distance, but in due tyme sly back or hazard to be hurt, because ye swyst motion of the hand being w'in distance will deceue the eye, wher by yo shall not be able to Judge in due tyme to make a true ward, of this yo may se more in the chapter of the back sword syght in the 12th ground of the same.

7. yf he extend forth his dagg hand yo may make yo fyght at the same, remembring to kepe distance & to fly back according to yor gournors.

Every fight & ward wt these weapons, made out of any kynd of fyght, must be made & don according as is taught in the back sword fyght, but only yt the daggr must be vsed as is abousaid, in steed of the grype.

s. yf he lye bent vpō his Stocata wt his sworde or rapior poynt behind his daggr so yt yō cannot reach the same wtout putting in of yor soote, then make al yor sight at his daggr hand, euer remembring yor gournors, & then yf he draw in his daggr hand, so that yō may Crose his sworde blade wt yor, then make narrow space vpō him wt yor poynt & sodainly & strongely stryke or bere his poynt towarde his right syde, indyrecting the same, & instantly strike or thrust him on the hed, sace, Arme, or body, & sly back ther wtout of distance stil remembring yor gournors.

9. yf he lye spent vpo his variable fyght then kepe yo

distance

distance & make yor space narrow vpo him, til yo may Crosse his sword or rapior point we yor sword poynt, wher vpon, yo having won or gayned the place, strike or thrust instantly.

yf he lye bent or spent vpo the Imbrocata bere vp 10. yor point, & make yor space narrow & do the lyke.

Of the short sword & dagger syght against the longe fword & dagger or longe rapior & poinard.

Cap. 8.

F yō haue the short sword & daggr, defend 1.

w' yo' sword & not w' yo' daggr, except yō
haue a gautlet or hylt vpō yo' dagger hand, then yō may ward vpō forehand ward, vpon

the dubble wt the poynt of yor fword towarde his face.

Lye not aloft wt yor short sword yf he lye alowe 2. variable on the Stocata or passata &c, for then your space wilbe to wyde to make a true Crose in due tyme, or to farr in his course to make yor space narrow, the weh space take heede yo make very narrow, yea, so yt yf it touch his blade, it is better.

I say make yor space narrow vntil yo can crose his 3. fword blade strongly & sodainly, so shal you put by his point out of the right lyne, & instantly strike or thrust, & flyp back according to yor gournors.

but take heede unless yo can surely & safly crose go not in, but although yo can so crose, & ther vpon yo enter in, stay not by yt but fly out according to yor gournors, yf wt his longe sword or rapior he charge you aloft 4. out of his open or true gardant fyght strykyng at the right

Bref Instructions.

107

right syde of yor hed, yf yo haue a gautlet or close hylt vpon yor daggr hand then ward it dubble wt forehand ward, bering yo' fword hylt to warde yo' right should, wt yor knuckles upwarde & yor fword poynt to warde the right fyde of his brest or sholder, crossing yo' dagger on you fword blade resting yt ther on vpon ye hyer fyde of yo' fword beringe yo' hylts close together wt yor dagger hilt a little behind yor sword hilt bering both yor hands right out together spent or verye neere spent when yo ward his blowe, Meetinge him so vpon yor ward that his blow may light at yor half sword or win, so that his blade may slyde from yor sword & rest on yor daggr, at weh instant tyme thrust forth yor poynt at his brest & fly out instantly, so shal yo cotynually endanger him & go saf yo' self.

5. Yf he strike a lost at the lest syde of yot hed, ward as aforesaid, bering yor sword hilt towarde yor left should wt yor knuckles down warde, & yor sword poynt towarde the left fyde of his brest or shold, bowing you body & hed a little forewarde towarde him, & remembr to bere yor warde on both fyds yt he strike y not vpon the hed, then vpo his blow meet his sword as is aforefaid w' yo' dagger crost ou' yo' sword blade as before, & when his fword by reason of his blowe vpon yor fword shal slyde doune & rest vpon yor dagger, then fodginly cast his sword blade out to warde you left syde wt yor dagger, to indirect his point, & ther wt thrust at his brest fro yor ward & fly out instantly, the like may you do yf his sword glance out fro yon, vpo his blowe.

al this may fafly be don wt ye short sword & close hylted dagger or gautlet

Stay not w' in distance of the longe sword or rapior 6. w' yo' short sword, nor suffer him to wyn the place of you, but eyther Crose his sword, or make yo' space verye narrow to crose it before his blow or thrust be in force, yet keping yo' distance wher by he shall strike or thrust at nothing, & so he shalbe subject to the tyme of yo' hand against the tyme of his feet.

Kepe distance & lye as yō thinke best for yor ease & 7. safty, yet so yt yō may strike, thrust, or ward, & when yō find his poynt Certaine, then make yor space narrow & crose his sword, so shal yō be the first mour, & enter first into yor action, & he beinge an astr doer, is not able to avoyd yor Crose, nor narrow space, nor any such offence as shalbe put in execution against hym.

havinge Crost his longe sword or rapior wt yot short 8. sword blade, & put his poynt out of the strait lyne by force then strike or thrust at him wt yot sword & sly out instantly accordinge to y' gournors.

Stand not vpo gardant fyght only, for so he will 9. greatlye endanger yo out of his other fyghts because yo have made yo' self a c'taine marke to him, for in contynuynge in y' fyght only yo shal not only weary yo' self, but do also exclude yo'self fro the benysyt of the Open, variable, & close fyghts, & so shal he have four fyghts to yo' one, as yo may se in the Chapter of the short syngle sword fyght in the 15th ground therof.

Yf he lye in Open or true gardant fyght, then yo 10. may vpon yo' open & gardant fight fafly bringe yo' felf to the half fword, & then you may thrust him in the body, vnder his gard or sword when he bereth it gardant, because he is weak in his garde, but sly out instantly, & he cannot bringe in his point to hurt yo except except he go back wt his foote or feet, wth tyme is to longe to answer the swyft tyme of the hand.

yf he put doune his fword lower to defend yt thrust then will his hed be open, so yt yo may strike him on the hed our ouer his fword & fly out ther wt, wth thinge he cannot defend, because his space is to wyde to put vp his blade in due tyme to make a true ward for the same.

I. Understand yt the whole som of the long rapior fyght is eyther upon the Stocata, Passata, Imbrocata, or Mountanta, al these, and al the rest of their devyes you may safly prevent by kepinge yo' distance, because therby you shal stil dreue him to vie the tyme of his feet, wherby yo shal stil p'vent him of ye true place, & therfore he cannot in due tyme make any of these fyghts offencive vpon you by reason yt the number of his feet will still be to great, so yt he shal stil vie the slow tyme of his seet to the swyst tyme of yo' hand, & therfore yo may safly defend yo' self & offend him,

Now you plainly se how to prvent al these, but for the bett^r example note this, wher as I say by kepeinge of distance som may obiect y^t then the rapior man will com in by degrees w^t such warde as shall best lyke him, & dryve back the sword man contynually, to whome I answer, y^t can he not do, by reason y^t y^e sword mans travers is made c'culer wyse, so y^t the rapior man in his comyng hath no place to carrye the poynt of his rapior, in due tyme to make home his syght, but y^t still his rapior wil lye w^t in the compass of the tyme of the sword mans hand, to make a true crosse vpon him, the w^{ch} crosse beinge made w^t force he may safty vncrose, & hurt the rapior man in the Arme, hed, face or body, we blow or thrust, & fly out saf before he shal haue tyme to direct his poynt agains to make his thrust vpo ye sword man.

Pз

Yf ye rapior man lye vpon the stocata, first make yo' 12. space narrow wt yo' short sword, & take heed yt he strike not doune yo' sworde poynt wt his dagger & so Jump in & hurt you wt the thrust of his longe rapior, wth thing he may do because he haue comaunded your sword, & so yo are lest open & discoved & lest onlye vnto the vnc taine ward of yo' dagg', wth ward is to syngle for a man to venter his lyf on, wth yf yo mysse to prforme Neuer so lyttle yo are hurt or slaine.

To p'vent this danger yo must remember your 13. gou'nors, & p'sently vpon his least motion be sure of yo' distance, & yo' narrow space, then do as follow.

Yf he lye vpo his stocata, w' his rapior point w' in 14. or behind his dagge hand out strait, then lye yo variable in Measure wt yor right foote before & yor sword poynt out directly forth wt yor space very narrow as neere his rapior poynt as yo may, betwixt his rapior poynt & his dagger hand, from web yo may sodainly wt a wrist blow, lyft vp yor poynt & strike him on the out syde or in syde of his dagg' hand, & fly out w' all, then make yor space narrow as before, then yf he thrust home at yo, yo are redy prpred for hys thrust, or yo may thrust at his dagger hand, do weh yo shal thinke best, but yor blow must be but only by moving of yor wrist, for yf yo lyft vp yo' hand and Arme to fetch a large blowe then yor tyme wilbe to longe, & yor space to wyde in due tyme to make a true ward to defend yor felf from his thrust, so shall yo hurt him although he haue a gantlet therone, for yor thrust wil run vp between between his fing, & yor blow wil cut of the fyng, of his gantlet, for he cannot defend himself from on blow or thrust of 20, by reason that yo haue the place to reach home at his hand, & for y' cause he cannot p'vent it, nether can he rech home to you w'out putting in of his soot or feet, because his distance is to large, but upon eur blow or thrust y' yo make at his hand slypp back a little, so shall yo still vpo eur blow or thrust y' yo make at him, be out of his reach, but yf vpon yo' blow or thrust he wil enter in w' his soote or feet to make home his stocata or thrust vpo you, then by reason of yo' slydynge back, you shalbe prepared in due tyme to make a prsyt ward to defend yo'self w' yo' sworde.

Therfore euer respect his rapior poynte & remember to make & kepe narrow space vpon it wt yor sword poynt, that yo may be sure to break his thrust before it be in ful force.

15. Yf he thrust at yo' hyer prts w' his poynt a lyttle mounted, then make narrow yo' space w' yo' poynt vpon his, yf yo Crose his blade on the insyde between his rapior & his dagg', yf he press in then fro yo' crose beat or bere backe his poynt strongly towarde his right syde, and havinge indirected his poynt, strike him on the insyde of the rapior or dagg' hand or Arme, or on the hed, sace, or body, & sly out instantly,

Or you may vpon his prssinge in wt his thrust Slypp yor poynt doune as he cometh in, & put vp yor hylt & ward it gardant, & ther wt from that ward cast out his poynt, & sodainly strike him in one of the placs aforesaid, & sly out instantly eremembringe yor gournors.

16. Yf he lye fast & do not com in, then strike & thrust ther wt euery tyme

but yf he lye fast & beat doune yor poynt wt his 17. dagger, & then thrust at you from his Stocata then turne vp yor hilt wt yor knuckles vpwarde & yor nayles dounwarde, takinge his blade vpo the backfyde of yon towarde yor left syde & bere it gardant towarde yt fyde, & so may yo offend him as before is said vpo vt ward.

The lyke may yo do vpon him yf he lye out wt his 18. poynt, when yo haue crost ye same we you, & strike it to eyther fyde, & so indirect his poynt, and then strike or thrust & sly out.

The lyke must yo do, yf he lye with his point 19.

directly towarde yor bellye

but yf yo crose his poynt so mounted or dyrect as 20. abouesaid, vpo ye out syde of yor sword wt his poynt a little hyer than yor hylt, so yt you may crose his blade, then yf he thrust ouer yo' blade syngle uncrossing the same, then may you break it wt yor forehand ward out towarde yo' right fyde, & yf he com in ther wt, then strike him on the out syde of his rapior hand or Arme, or on the hed or face, & fly out ther wt

but yf he thrust in ouer yor sword as abouesaid & 21. press in his blade strongly dubble wt the helpe of his dagger, then put doune yor poynt & turne vp yor hylt gardant, so shal yo sasty defend it beringe it gardant out towarde yor left syde & from yt strike him in between his rapior and dagger in on of the forefaid places, & fly out, but yf from this crose he slypp his poynt doune to thrust vndr yor sword, then strike doune his poynt towarde fly out instantly, according to yor gournors.

Also yo may vpon this of his poynt doune, then turne yor poynt short ouer his blade in yor steppynge back, & put yo' poynt doune in the infyde of his blade turnynge vp yor hilt gardant as aforesaid, & then yf he thrust at yo, bere it gardant towarde yor left syde, & then have you the same offenciue blowes & thrusts against him as is abouesaid vpo ye same ward.

22. Yf he lye aft^r the Stocata wt his poynt doune towarde yor foote, then crose his blade on ye out syde, & yf he turne his poynt our yor blade to make his thrust vpon you, then turne vp yor hilt & bere it gardant as abouefaid, bering it out towarde yor left fyde, & fro yt ward offend him as is abouefaid

23. Also in this fyght take heed yt he thrust yo not in the fword hand or arme, therfore euer respect to draw it back in due tyme, remembring therin yor twofold gournor, in yor comyng in, to make yor crofe or narrow space.

24. Yf at fword & dagger or buckler he strike in at the out fyde of yo' right legge ward it w' the back of yo' fword, carrying yor poynt doune holding yor knuckles dounwarde & yor Nayles upwarde, bering yor fword out strongly towarde yo' right syde, vpon weh ward yo may strike him on the out syde of the left legge, or thrust him in ye thigh or belly

The lyke may yo do yf he strik at yo' other syde, yf yo ward his blowe wt the edge of yor fword yor hand & knuckles as aforesaid, casting out his sword blade

towarde

towarde yor left syde, this may be vsed at short or longe sword syght.

you must neuer vse any fyght against the longe 26. rapior & dagg^r wt yo^r short sword but variable fyght, because yo^r space wilbe to wyde, & yo^r time to longe, to defend or offend in due tyme.

Also yo must vse large distance euer, because out of 27. yt fyght yo can hardly make a true crose because being wt in distance ye eye is deceived to do it in due tyme

rememb in putting forth yor fword point to make 28. yo' space narrow, when he lyeth vpo his stocata, or any thrust, yo must hold ye handle thereof as it were a longst yor hand, resting the pomell thereof in the hollow prte of the mydl of the heele of yor hand towarde the wrift, & the former prte of the handle must be holden betwixt the fore fynger & thumbe, wtout the Myddle Joynt of the fore fynger towarde the topp ther of, holding yt fynger somethinge strait out gryping round yor handle wt yor other iij fingers, & laying yor thumbe strait out vpo the handle, so yt yor thumbe lye al alonge vpon ye same, so shal yo lay yor point out strait towarde his, the better to be able to prforme this actio prfytly, for yf yo grype yo' handle close ou'thwart in yo' hand, then can yo not lay yo' poynt ftrait vpon his to make yot space narrow, but yt yot poynt wil stil lye to wyde to doe the same in due tyme, & this is the best way to hold yor sword in al kinde of variable fyght

but vpo yo' gardant or open fyght then hold it w' 29. ful gryping it in yo' hand, & not laying yo' thumb alonge y' handle, as fom vse, then shal you neuer be able strongly to ward a stronge blowe.

bere to my country men, wishing them yet once againe to follow the truth, & to fly the vaine Imprfyt rapior fight, the bett^r to faue themselues from wounds & slawghter, for who so attayneth to the preccisio of this true fyght weh I have here set forth in these my bref Instructions, & also in my pradoxes of desence, shall not only defend them selves, but shall ther by bring those that syght vpo that Imprfyt syght of ye rapior vnd^r their mercye, or else put them in Cobbs travers, where of yo may read in the 38 Chapter of my pradoxes aforesaid.

Of y fword & Buckler fyght,

Cap. 9.

WORD & Buckler fight, & fword & dagg' fyght are al one, faving yt yo may fafly defend both blowe & thrust, syngle wt yo buckler only, & in likesort yo may fafly ward both blowes & thrusts dubble, yt is wt sword & buckler together wth is great advantage against yt sword & dagg', &c, & is the surest fight of al short weapons.

Of the two hand fword fight against y like weapon. Cap. 10.

HESE weapons are to be vsed in fight as the short staf, yf both play vpo dubble & syngle hand, at the ij hand sword, the long sword hath the advantage yf the waight ther of be not to heavye for his strength y hath it, but yf both play only vpon dubble hand, then his blade web is of covenyent length agreeing wt his stature yt hath it, weh is according with the length of the measure of his syngle swordblade, hath the advantage of ye sword y' is to long for y' flature of the contrarye prtye, because he can crose & vncrose, strike & thrust, cloze & grype in shorter tyme than the other can.

This

Of the short staf fyght, being of covenient length, against y like weapon.

Cap. 11.

HE short staf hath iiij wards, yt is ij wt ye point vp, & ij wt the poynt doune,

At these weapons euer lye so that yo may 1. be able to thrust syngle & dubble, & to ward, strike, or thrust in due tyme, so shal yor enemye, yf he fyght only vpo dubble hand be driven of necessitie, feeking to wyn the place, to gayne yo the place wher by yo may fafly hurt him, & go free yor felf by reason of yor distance, & when yo shal seeke to wyn the place vpon him he shal not be able to gaine the place vpon you, nor to kepe the place fro you wher by he shal eyther be hurt, or in great danger of hurt, by reason of yor large reach, true place & distance, yor fight being truly handled keeping it self from Cloze & grype.

And in like fort shal it be betweene two, weh shal 2. play vpon the best, yt is, yf they play both dubble & syngle handed.

yf yo fynd yo' felf to strong for yo' adu'sarie in any 3. mann of ward, whether the same be aboue or belowe, put by his staf wt force, & then strike or thrust from it,

Bref Instructions.

4. but yf yo fynd him to strong for yo vpo hys blowes from a loft, so yt yo can hardly bere them vpon you ward, then when he stryketh in a loft at yor hed, & by hys maine strength would beat doune yor staf, & so geue yo a hurt before yo shalbe able to com againe into yor ward,

Against such a on give the slypp in this fort, sodainly dray back the hyer prte of yor body a lyttle & yor for most foote wt all, & slyp in the poynt of yor staf und his staf, & thrust single at him, & sly out wt all, so shal you be sure to hyt him & go out free,

5. yf he lye a loft wt his staf, then lye yo wt your hind hand alowe, we yor poynt vptowards his staf making yor space narrow because yo may crose hys staf to ward his blow before it com in ful force, & then strongly & sodainlye indirect his poynt, & so thrust at him syngle, the web yo may do before he can remove his feet, by reason of the swystnes of yor hand & fly out ther wt, do this for both syds of yt hed yf cause require yt, so shal yo saue both yor hed, body, and al prts, for yor vppr prts are garded, & yor lower prts to farr out of his reach.

6. yf he lye a lowe w't his poynt doune, then lye yo wt yor poynt doune also, wt yor formost hand lowe & yor hindr most hand hye, so yt yo may crose his staf, & do in al things as is before faid in the other

7. yf he lye vpo the thrust then lye yo wt yor space narrow lying vp or doune wt yor poynt in such fort as you may crose his staf, & therby yo shal be able to put or beat by his thrust before it be in ful force, & then strike or thrust, euer remembring yor gouernors. yf vpon this any wil obiect yt yf this betrue, then it is in vaine to strike, or thrust, because he yt doth it is stil in danger, this doubt is answered in the short single sword fight, in the 12th ground thereof

119

Yf yo' adu'sarie strike a lost at any syde of yo' hed 8, or body, ward it w' yo' point vp & making yo' space so narrow y' yo may crose his staf before it com in sulforce bearing or beating doune his blow strongly, back againe towards y' syde y' he stryketh in at you, & out of y' ward, then Instantly, eyther strike fro y' ward, turning back yo' staf, & strike him on y' syde of the hed y' is next yo' staf,

Or lyst vp yor staf againe, & so strike him on the hed or body, or thrust at his body dubble or syngle, as yo may find yor best advantage ever in holding yor staf, let ther be such convenient space between yor hands, wher in you shal synd yor self aptest to ward, strike or thrust to yor best lyking Yf yo play w' yo' staf w' yo' left hand before & yo' 9. right hand back behind, as many men do fynd them felues most aptest when yt hand is before, & yf yor aduersarie vpo his blowe com in to take the cloze of you, when yo fynd his staf crost wt you neere his hand then sodainlye slyp vp yor right hand close to the hind fyde of yor formost hand, & plently loosing yor for must hand & put it vndr your owne staf, & then crose or put by his staf ther wt & wt yor hand take hold of his staf in such fort yt yor lyttle fyngt be towards the poynt of his staf, & yor thumb & fore fing towards his hands, & preently we yor right hand mount ye point of yor owne staf casting the point thereof back ouer yor right shold, we yor knuckles doun wards, & yor nayles vpwards, & so stabb him in the body or face w^t the hind end of y ftaf, but be fure to stabb him at his comyng in, whether yo catch his staf or not, for somyng in yo cannot reach it, then out y vpon his comyng in yo cannot reach it, then catch y arme in his comynge in whe fhal first put forth w in yo reach, but be sure to stabb, for his staf can do yo no hurt, and having so don, yf yo fynd yo self to strong for him, strike vp his heeles, yf to weake sty out.

10. The like must yo do yf yo play wt yo' right hand before, & yo' lest hand back behind, but yt yo neede not to slyde forth yo' lest hand, because yo' right hand is in the right place of yo' staf alredye to vse in yt action, but then yo must displace yo' lest hand to take hold of his staf, or the grype as is a foresaid, & to vse the stabb as is aboue said,

11. yf both lye a loft as aforesaid, & play w'ye left hand before, yf he strike at the Ryght syde of yo' hed or body then must yo crose his staf before his blow be in sulforce, by making yo' space narrow, & then strike it strongly back againe towards his lest syde, & from y' ward yo may turne back yo' staf & strike him backwards ther w' on the lest syde of the hed, or lyst vp yo' staf & strike him on the right or lest syde of the hed, body, or arme, or thrust him in the body, the lyke blowes or thrusts may you make at him whether he strike or thrust, having put by his staf, remembring yo' gou'nors.

The like ord must yo vse in playing with the right hand before,

12. but yf he thrust at yo cotynually then euer have a speciall care to cosyder, whether he lye a lost or belowe, lowe, & do continually thrust at yo ther from, then looke that yo ever lye so y' yo make yo' space so narrow vpon him, y' yo be sure to crose his staf w' yo', & put it before it be in sull force, and fro y' ward, thrust at him syngle or dubble as yo fynd it best, & yf he rememb' not to sly back at y' instant when he thrusteth it wilbe to late for him to avoyd any thrust y' yo shal make at him,

Of the short staf fyght against the longe staf. Cap. 12.

F yo haue a staf of the covenient length 1.

against a staf of longer length than is covenient then make yo' space narrow, & seeke not to offend vntil yo haue strongly & swystly put by his point the web yo shal wt ease accomplish, by reason of yo' narrow space & yo' force, then strike or thrust as yo shal thinke best.

This short staf fight against ye longe staf is don in 2. the same sort that short staf fight to short staf is don, but y' the man w' the short staf must alwaies remembre to kepe a narrow space vpon ye long staf, wher so euer the longe staf shal lye, Hye or lowe, cotinually make yo' space narrow vpo him, so shal yo be sure yf he strike or thrust at yo, to take the same before it be into his sull force & by reason y' yo' force is more w' yo' short staf than his can be at the poynt of his longe staf, yo shal cast his staf so farr out of ye streit lyne w' yo' short staf, y' yo may safly enter in w' yo' feet, & strike or thrust home at him.

Yet this p'sent shift he hath at y' instant, he may 3. slypp him fro yor warde, eyther at fyngle or dubble,

but yf he wil go back wt his feet thinking by yt meanes to recour the whole length of hys staf againe, yt can he not do in covenyent tyme because the tyme of yor hand is swystr than yt tyme of his feet, by reason wherof yo may strike or thrust him in his goyng back.

space vpo him, & ther we al yo may strike or thrust

5. Againe it is to be remembred in y' tyme y' yô keepe him at y' bay, vpō the drawing in of his staf, the hindrend therof lying so farr back behind him wilbe so trobblesom vnto him, that he can make no prfyt fight against yō & comonly in his drawing in of his staf it wilbe to short to make true fight against you, nether to offend yō nor defend him self.

6. yf he attempt the Cloze wt yo then stabb him wt the hindr end of yor staf as is said in ye fyght of ye ij short staves of covenyent length, in the 9th ground thereof

Note. Rememb yt at Morris pyke, forrest byll, longe staf & two hand sword, yt yo lye in such sort vpo yor wards vt yo may both ward, strike, & thrust, R

121

both dubble & fyngle, & then returne to yo' former wards flyps & lyinge againe & then are yo as yo wer before

The like fight is to be vsed wt yt Javelen, prtyson, halbard, black byll, battle Axe, gleve, half pyke &c.

Off the fight of the forrest byll against the like weapon & against the staf.

Cap: 13.

HE forrest by haue the fyght of the staf but 1.

y' it hath iiij wards more w' the hed of the byll, y' is one to bere it vpwards, another to beat it dounwards so y' the carrage of yo' byll hed be w' the edge neyther vp nor doune but

The other ij wards are on to cast his byl hed towards the ryght syde, thother towards ye left syde.

fyde wyfe.

And vpon eir on of these wards or catches run vp to his hands wt the hed of yor byll & then by reason yt yo haue put his staf out of ye right lyne, yo may catch at his hed neck arme or leggs &c wt ye edge of yor byll, & hook or pluck him strongly to you & sly out wtall.

Yf yo cast his staf so farr out y' yo' byll slyde not 2. vp to his hands, then yo may safly run in slyding yo' hands w'in one yard of y' hed of yo' byll, & so w' yo' byl in one hand take him by y' legg w' the blade of yo' byll & pluck him to yo & w' yo' other hand defend yo' self from his gryps yf he offer to grype w' you.

Yf you fight byll to byll do the like in al respects 3as w' y' staf in yo' fyght, for yo' byll fight & staf fyght is alone, but only for the defence & offence we the hed of ye byll, & wher ye staf man vpo the cloze yf he vse ye stabb we the butt end of his staf, the byll man at ye tyme is to vse ye catch at his legg we ye edge of his byll, as in ye second ground above is said.

Remembr euer in al yor fyght wt this weapon to make yor space narrow whether it be against the staf or byll so yt what so euer he shal do against you, yo shal still make yor ward before he be in his ful force to offend you.

5. Also yf yo can reach win the hed of his byll wt the hed of yor byll then sodainly wt the hed of yor byll snach his byll hed strongly towards you, & therwill indirect his byl hed & forcibly run vp yor byl hed to his hands, so haue yo the lyke advantage as abouesaid, wheras I spake of runyng vp towards his hands.

6. Yf he lye alowe w' his byl hed then yf yo can put yo' byll hed in ou' the hed of his bylle & stronglye put doune his byl staf w' yo' byl hed, bearinge it slat, then yo may p'sently run vp yo' byll hed single handed to his hands & sly out therw', so shal yo hurt him in yo hand & go free yo'felf.

7. The like may yo do wt yor byll against the short staf yf yo can press it downe in ye lyke sort, but yf he haue a longe staf then run vp dubble handed wt both hands vpon yor byll, wth thynge yo may sasly do because yo are in yor strength & haue taken him in the weak prte of his staf.

8. Yf he lye hye wt his byll hed then put vp yor byll hed undr his & cast his byll out to yt syde yt yo shal fynd syttest, so haue yo the aduantage to thrust or hook at him & sly out.

Or yf yo cast his byl farr out of the right lyne then run in & take him by the legg wt ye edge of yor byll, as is faid in the 2nd ground of this chapter.

Yf yo ward his blow wt yor byll staf wtin yor byll o hed, then answer him as wt ye short staf.

Note y' as the byl mans advantage is to tak the staf wt ye hed of ye byll so the staf man by reason yt ye hed of ye byll is a faire mark hath ye advantage of him in ye casting asyde of the hed of the byll we his staf or beating yt afyde, the weh yf ye byll man looke not very well into it the staf man ther vpon wil take al mann of advantages of ye staf fyght against him.

" The Chapter on the Morris pike is unique. as no other work speaks of parries with that weapon."-W. London.

Of the fyght of y morris pyke against the lyke weapon.

Cap: 14.

F yo fight wt yor enemy having both morris 1.

pyks wt both poynts of yor pyks forwards, alowe upon ye ground, holding the butt end of the pyke in one hand fyngle wt knuckles vpwards & the thumb undrneth, we the thumbe & forefing towards yor face & the lyttle fynger towards the poynt of ye pyke, bering the butt end of the pyke fro the one fyde to ye other right before the face, then lye yo we yor arme spent & yor body open we yor hand to ye right fyde wt yor knuckles Dounwards & yor nailes vpwards.

Or yo may lye in y' fort, w' yo' hand over to the left fyde we yo' knuckles vpwards & yo' nayles Dounwards, wherby al yor body wilbe Open. yf then he shal fodainlye rayse up the point of his pyke we his other hand hand & com to thrust at yo, then in the Mountinge of his poynt or his coynge in sodainlye tosse vp the poynt of yor pyke wt yor hand fyngle & fo thrust him in the leggs wt yor pyke & fly out therwt.

Or els you May stand vpo yor ward & Not tosse vp yor pykes poynt but breake his thrust by crossynge the poynt of his pyke we the Mydds of yor pyke by casting vp yor hand, wt the butt end of yor pyke aboue yor hed, & so bering ouer hys point w' yor staf, to the other syde as for example,

Yf yo lye w' yo' hand spent towards the lest syde of yo' bodye, then sodainlye bere his poynt ouer strongly towards yor right syde.

Yf yo lye wt yor hand spent towards yor right syde then bere his poynt towards yo' left fyde, & ther vpon gather vp yor pyke wt yor other hand & thrust at him

& fly out.

Yf he cotynew his fyght wt his point aboue, & yo lye we yor pyke brest hye & hyer we your hand & point fo, yt yo may Make yor thrust at his face or body wt yo' poynt Directly towards his face, holding yo' pyke wt both your hands on yor staf yor hinder hand wt yor knuckles vpwards & yo' formust hand w' yo' knuckles dounwards & ther shaking yor pyke & faulsing at his face wt yor poynt as Neere his face as you may, then sodainlye Make out yor thrust syngle handed at his face & fly backe w'all, web thrust he can hardly breake one of 20 by reason y' yo have made yo' space so narrow vpon his gard, so yt yo beinge first in yor action he wil stil be to late in his defence to defend himself.

but note while yo lye faulfinge to Deceve him looke well to yo' leggs y' he in the Meane tyme toffe not vp the R 3 poynt poynt of his pyke syngle handed & hurt yo therw in ye shynes.

Yf he lye fo wt his poynt vp a loft as you do then 5. Make yor space Narrow Mountinge yor point a lyttle & crose his pyke wt yor & stronglye and sodainly cast his poynt out of the right lyne and thrust whome from the fame fyngle or dubble as you fynd yo' best aduantage, & fly out therw^t.

Or yo may run in when yo haue cast out his poynt flydinge both yor hands on yor staf til yo com win iii quarters of a yard of the hed of yor pyke & stabb him therw't w't one hand & w't yo'r other hand kepe him of from ye grype.

Now yf he be a man of skyll, notwistandinge y 6. Making of yt faulte in suffering you to do so yet this help he hath, as yo are comynge in he will fodainlye draw in his pyke poynt & fly back wtall, then have yo no helpe but to fly out instantly to the myddle of you pyke & from thence backe to y end & then are yo as at the first begynnynge of yo' fyght yo were.

Yf you fynd yt he lye farr out of ye right lyne wt 7. his poynt or y' yo can so farr Indirect ye same then cast yor pyke out of yor hands, crose over vpon the myds of his pyke, by weh meanes yo shal entangle his pyke, then while he doth stryve to get his pyke at lybertye, run you in fodainlye drawing yor Daggr & strike or stabb at him.

Then yf he haue the prfection of this fyght as well 8. as you, he wilbe as reddy wt his daggr as yo are wt yon, then must yo fyght it out at the syngle dagg fyght as is shewed in the 15th Cap: then he yt hath not the prfection of y' fyght gow' to wracke.

Bref Instructions.

And here note yt in all the course of my teachinge of these my breef Instructions yf both the prtyes haue the ful prfection of ye true fyght then the on will not be able to hurt thother at what prfyt weapon so euer.

But yf a Man yt haue the prfection of fight shal fight wt on yt have it not then must yt vnskylful man go to wrack & thother goe free.

Of the fingle Dagger fyght against the lyke weapon. Cap: 15.

IRST know yt to this weapon ther belongeth no Wards nor gryps but against such a one as is foolehardy & will suffer himself to have as is foolehardy & will fuffer himself to have a ful stabb in the face or bodye to hazard the geving of Another, then against him yo may vse yor left hand in throwinge him afyde or strike vp his heeles aft yo have stabe him.

2. In this dagg^r fyght, yo must vse cotynual motion so shal he not be able to put yo to ye cloze or grype, because yor contynuall motion disappointeth him of his true place, & the more ferce he is in runynge in, the foon he gayneth you the place, wherby he is wounded,

& yo not any thing the rather endangered.

3. The mann of handling yor cotynual motion is this, kepe out of distance & strik or thrust at his hand, Arme, face or body, yt shal press vpon yo, & yf he defend blow or thrust wt his dagg make yo blow or thrust at his hand.

4. Yf he com in wt his left legg forewards or wt the right, do you strike at yt prte as soone as it shalbe win yor reach, remembring yt yo vie contynual motion 128

Bref Instructions.

in yor prgression & regressyon according to yor twyfold gournors.

Although the dagg' fyght be thought a verye dan- 5. gerous fyght by reason of ye shortnes & synglenes therof, yet the fight therof being handled as is aforefaid, is as faf & as defencive as is the fight of any other weapon, this endeth my breef Instructions.

Finis.

Sundry kinds of play or fight. Thornborow.

1 Unc'taine variable

2 fyngle 3 gardant.

iij different kinds of fight.

1 yt forceth or prefeth on

2 he y' goeth back w' fom blow or w' an Imp'fit ward

3 he yt standeth to his wards or & out of ye way.

1. Against him yt prsseth ye, naked play is best becs he useth his foote, ye open lofty play ye hand.

2. ye 2nd is best followed wt y variable & vnctaine handling els should yo be a marke to yor enemy & too flow in motion.

3. y' 3rd must be incountred w' y' gardant play wherin you shal try him at y' B sword or how he can escape y' prting blow or thrust.

When yo gather kepe yor place & space equal & only be a patient & rememb y y gardant play bringeth yo fafly in & keps yor enemy out.

Know this ord of play els y best may be deceaved, to be used against al these difference & bring y goodnes therof in suspitio, for al these plaies are good in their kynd, tyme & occasio offered by divisitie of play, but not on of them to be continually used & played vpon as a precció against euery assault.

1. In y' naked play yo must set yo'self vpright w' yor feet in a smale space, obsving y place of yor hand wher yo may strike or thrust most quickly & redely & so take y' tyme of him y' prsseth on (vsing y' tyme of his feet) wt yot blowe or thrust wher he is most open.

1. In ye variable play, yo dryve him to his shyfts changing yo'felf into fundry kynds of blowes thrusts & lyings, web yo must not stay upon,

2. feeking to + him stil in his playes as yo may, wherby yo shal force him to fly, or els to stand to y'

proof of his B sword play.

3. the gardant play is to be vsed against y blowe, thrust & passata yt cometh win dange of hurt, for treading y' right way & keping yor place & hand in space & strength you cannot loose ye tyme to defend fro either of those offers.

these Judged of in reason & known by som practise wil make yo deale sasty against al sorts, skilful or vnskilful, so yt feare or Angr hinder not yor Knowledge.

> Of Tymes. 1. The tyme of y foote hand & foot lfoot & hand, naught

Of place space. strength & tyme.

1. y' tyme of y' hand is when yo strike fro a w'd or stand in place to strike.

2. the tyme of y' foot is when yo step forward to strike or when yo gather towarde yor own right syde.

3. ye tyme of ye hand & foot is when yo tread you ground in course to strike rather than pissing forwards, or when yo flide back or go back, yor hand & foot being then of equal agillitie.

4. y' tyme of y' foot & hand is when yo handle yo' gardant play vsing then a slowe motio in both.

ther is but i good way to gather vpo yor enemy, gardant. Al other are dangerous & subject to y blowe on y' hed or thrust on y' body.

for no way can ward both but as aforf.

yor hand & feet in good play must go together, whether it be in quick or flow motion.

In gathering forwards or towrds yor right fyde yor hand falleth fro yor place, space, & strength & so falleth out y' loss of tyme.

when yo gather & suffer y' gou'ne yo' fight, defend only. when yo do, be fingle, or not fixed towards on any lying, but also ye quicknes of yor hand in its prpr place carried,

In breaking y' thrust when yo lye alost single or gardant & space yor arme somwhat bowing in warding ye blowe, haue respect to yor place of hand & strength, yor arme strait. this course in yor tyme is best prformed, the on of these wt yor hand aloft yor point downe thother yor hand in place yor more high yor space less curious.

II tyme is cheefly to be obsved in both actions vpo

93" wch (place fpace) waiteth.

Upon these 3 y 4 following, vpon these 4 y first

3, upon these y' later 3.

to hurt or defend, a tyme in both is to be obsved to y' furtherance of wch place is to be gotten, w'out wch tyme wilbe to long to p'form y' wch is intended, y' space is to be noted betwene ij opposits & in respect of touching, or in regard of saving as also for priving of tyme, by y' smale way it hath either to y' body, or puting by y' weapon.

the next 4 must be vsed together to prforme thother iij rules, for you hand being nymble & quick of itself may els be hindered in you want of any of these, the weapon must be framed & inclyned to sive you agilitie of y' hand eyther in hurting or defending.

the body vpright or leanyng to y weapon, y it hind not y dispositio of thother ij the foot answerable to them plying y hand & ward al in strait space, y w w hand high w y point downe, the arme strait out as redy for both actions.

Bref Instructions.

133

the way vndr y wid widrawing y body from harmes, the motio flowe y y actio of y hand be not hindered. the rest are y dispositions of y placed displaced handlings

Slowfoot: swift hand: quick foot: slow hand.

tread: stride: follow: falaway:

When yo feek to offend wt blow or thrust, yor place of hand is lost, yt way to redeeme it is to slyde back vndr yor losty ward as aforesid alwaies yt yor adursarie lye alost redy to strike or thrust or vse his hand only,

yf yo would offend him y' lyeth lowe vpo y' thrust then when yo displace yo' weapon fro alost yo may aft' yo' blow at hed or arme or neerest place, stand & thrust before yo go backe because he is out of place & space & cannot +, & therby looseth his tyme to annoy yo & yo may thrust & retyre for a new assault.

this not so sownd,

In striking or thrusting neur hindr yor hand we puting forth yor soote but kepe ye place therof til yo haue offended we ye one only ye bending of yor body very little foreward may sufficte, els yo loose a dubble tyme, on in setting forth yor soot thother in recouring yor lost place of yor sot both to ye loss of tyme & yor purposte.

Strike: thrust: ward: breake:

the dubble offence is in striking & thrusting.

the iij fold defence in warding y blow breaking or puting bye y thrust flyding back vnd yo hanging ward.

wyn y' place: stand fast, strike home offend, defend, & go saf.

the

al

al vnd' play is beaten w' most agil, single & y' losty the losty w' y' gardant, His when w' his soot he seeke y' low lying is out of place to ofend desend or not so for lack of tyme space & crossing, yf he lye out w' his long' weapo it is put bye fro alost, who hath place tyme & reach of body & arme al w' y' +.

the lofty naked play is beaten w' y' ward becs of {Cross space tyme} to Defend, y' lofty naked fingle loose play sveth to win y' Tyme of y' lowe & dubble play.

the bent gardant requireth yo' arme strait high & out y' point down towards (93 re II wel) y' body & foote y' way inclyned.

CHISWICK PRESS: -- CHARLES WRITTINGHAM AND CO. TOOKS COURT, CHANCERY LANE, LONDON.